Russia Vetoes Renaming Lie To U. N. Office

Assembly Might Extend His Term

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Soviet Union today used its veto power in an effort to block the reelection of U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie but legal experts at the U. N. said the assembly might be able to extend his term, possibly for three years.

These experts argued that in cases where the Security Council is not able to make a recommendation the General Assembly could extend the term of the secretary-general. Russia is expected to challenge this position but majority delegates said Lie could be retained against Soviet opposition.

Malik Casts 46th Soviet Veto

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister, cast Russia's 46th veto at a closed meeting of the Security Council against Lie's appointment to a new five-year term beginning next February 1.

The council vote was nine in favor of Lie. The Soviet Union opposed, and the eleventh member, Nationalist China, abstained.

Malik then proposed Zygmunt Modzelewski, foreign minister of Poland, for the post and he was promptly voted down by the Western Powers.

Russia alone voted for Modzelewski. China, Cuba, Ecuador and Yugoslavia opposed him. Six countries abstained: The United States, Britain, France, Norway, India and Egypt.

Big Five Must Agree

Under the U. N. Charter, the council must recommend a secretary-general, with the five big powers—Russia, the United States, France, China and Britain—voting unanimously for him. The General Assembly then must approve the recommendation and fix the term.

With this stalemate, the council drafted a letter to the Assembly stating that it was not able to make a recommendation.

This left the way open for the Assembly to vote an extension of Lie's term. A. H. Feller, legal adviser to the U. N. official, ruled last May that the Assembly could extend the term of a secretary-general in the case of failure of the council to make a recommendation and U. N. officials said delegates generally agreed with that ruling.

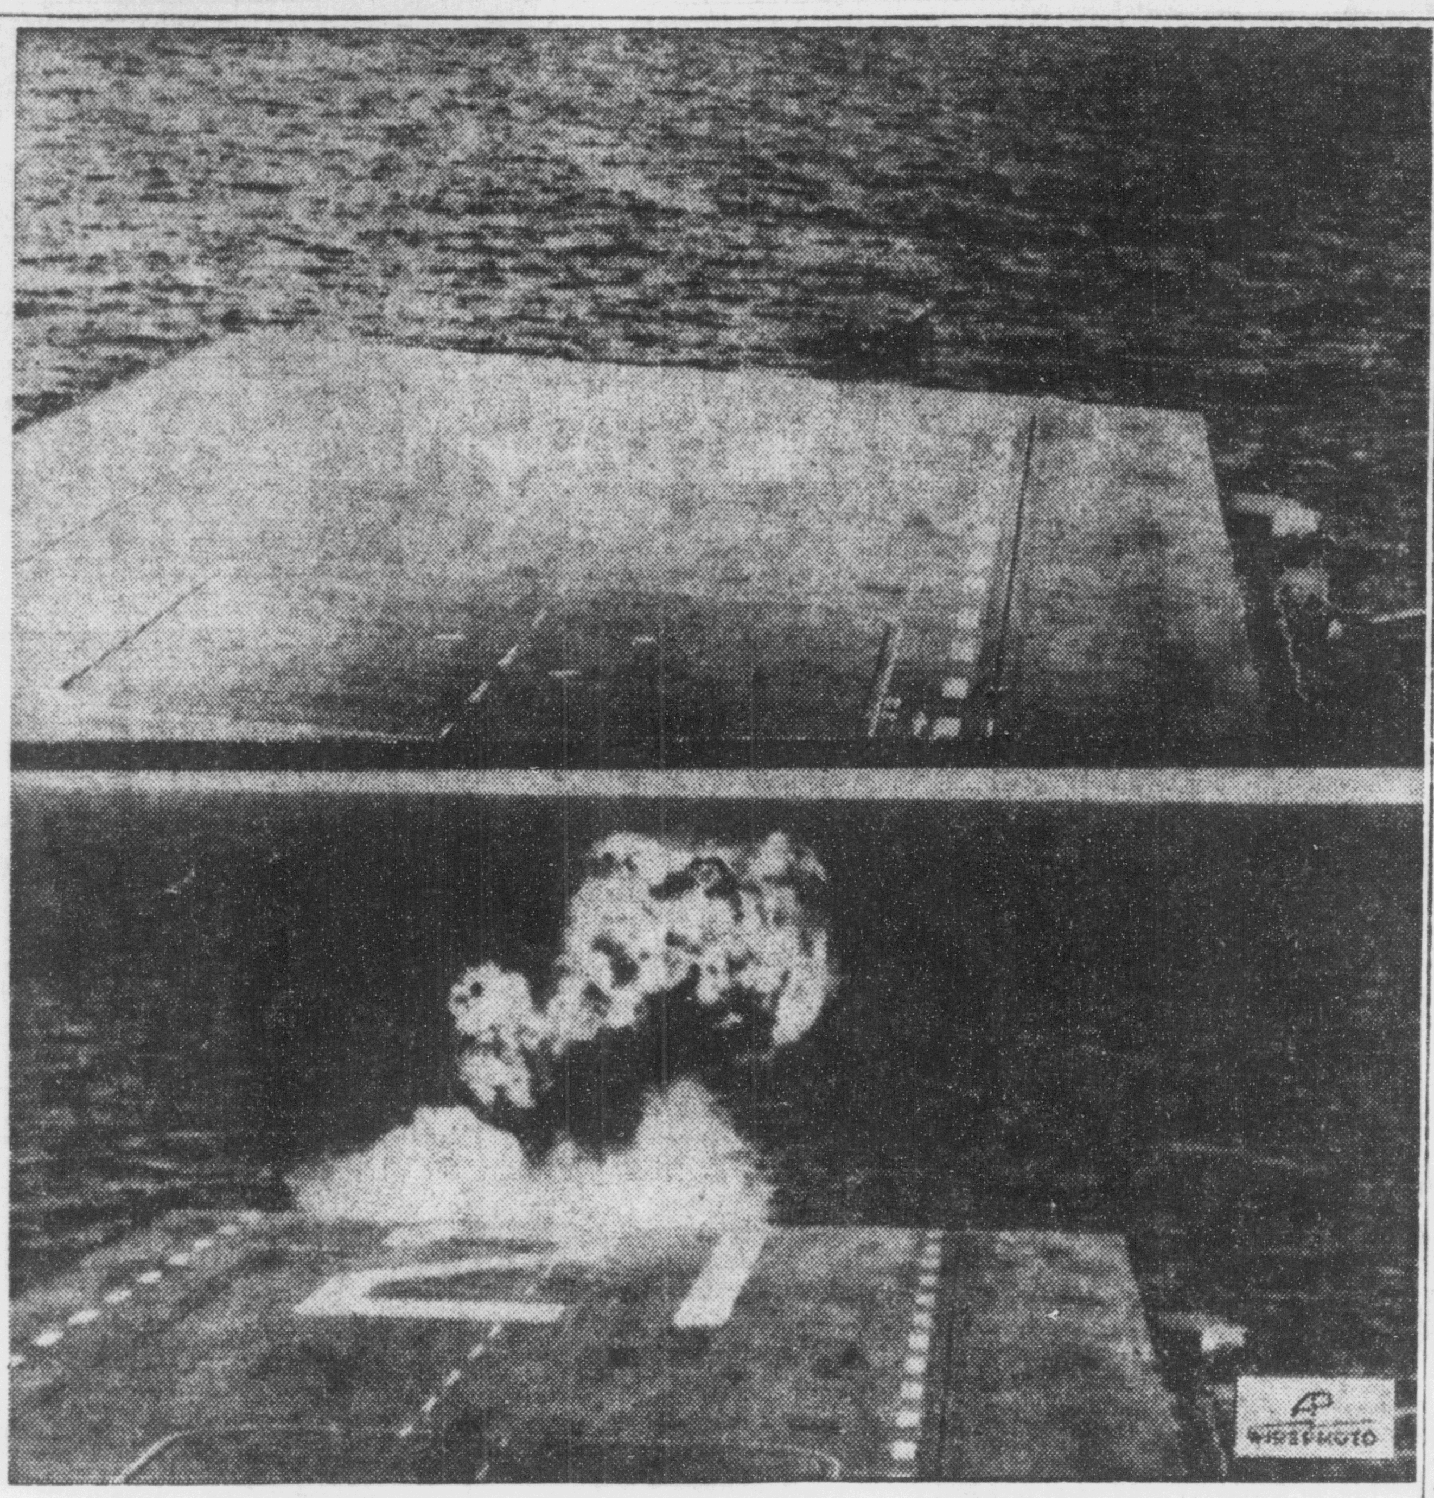
French Give Up Another Outpost

SAIGON, Indochina, Oct. 12 (AP)—French forces gave up another outpost today north of Hanoi, and serious consideration was being given to bolstering Hanoi itself against the danger of a Vietminh attack in the wake of a series of sharp French reversals.

Transformation of the Vietminh guerrilla's of Moscow-supported Ho Chih Minh into a powerful regular army has forced the French to take precautions to safeguard Hanoi, great trading center in Northern Indochina and former seat of the French governor general. The city, capital of Tonkin and major French base, is only about 40 miles from Thai Nguyen, which the French now have evacuated.

The relatively weak frontier positions remaining in French hands are constantly exposed to attack by overwhelming numbers of well-equipped Vietminh forces. The danger even extends to Langson, French frontier headquarters post and main border bastion.

The French suddenly decided to withdraw from Thainguygen. This town was a principal Vietminh base in the north before the French captured it Oct. 1.



Navy Fighter Plane Plunges Into Sea

A Corsair fighter plane, piloted by Ensign Jim Brogan, Detroit, skits off an aircraft carrier deck and plunged into the sea when engine trouble developed during a takeoff run in support of the Inchon invasion. At top, the pilot attempts to turn his plane to avoid being hit by the carrier. At bottom, smoke mushrooms upward as the plane plunges into the sea. The pilot was rescued by helicopter.

Greater Defense Effort Planned, Bradley Reveals

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley reported tonight that the military high command is aiming for an armed force of 2,100,000 men by next June, with 62 air groups and 905 Navy ships.

"Even these forces will not be adequate," Bradley said in a recorded broadcast.

Noting that current defense moves carry a "price tag" of $25,000,000,000, Bradley disclosed that the nation's military chiefs are now working on a plan "that's going to cost more money and take more effort and more men in uniform."

Program Goes To Truman

The General is chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He said the new program will be submitted to President Truman for presentation to Congress as soon as it is ready.

Bradley did not say how much more money will be needed, but he said he had asked a group of Detroit industrialists recently if they would be "willing to face an annual bill of 30 or 40 billion dollars for defense if it were necessary."

The five-star General said the topic of defense costs came up at a Detroit dinner three weeks ago attended by men "who represented a sizeable part of our industry."

Manufacturers' Reply

He quoted them as saying in reply:

"Yes, we will do with fewer profits, if we have to x x x We'll give you anything America honestly needs, and we will pay the bill if you can give us assurance that this is the best way to peace—and if not peace, to saving our skins."

Bradley's forecast of a 62-group air force by next June is four groups more than has been previously disclosed. The target of 2,100,000 men in uniform is a 50 per cent increase over the nation's armed strength before the Korean war broke out last June 25.

Haircut Price Cut Two-Thirds

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP) — The price of haircuts dropped to 35 cents today as the town's three barbers waged an energetic price warfare.

They cost $1 yesterday.

The barbers said they didn't know who started cutting prices first. Each said privately that "the other two would have to end it" before prices went up.

Motorists came from miles around to take advantage of the 35 cent haircuts.

O'Dwyer, Bookie Face Probe Call

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP) — Senate crime probers said today they may call ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer and Brooklyn Bookie Boss Harry Gross, whose $20,000,000 gambling empire is under grand jury fire.

"We're looking into it," said Sen. Estes Kefauver, Tennessee Democrat and head of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Sen. Tobey (R-NH) spoke a little more strongly. If it's agreeable to Kefauver, he said he would like to talk with O'Dwyer and the bookie at some future date.

Gross has admitted paying off crooked New York City police at the rate of $1,000,000 a year for protection. However, he has refused to give their names.

O'Dwyer, who quit as mayor Aug. 29 to become ambassador to Mexico, once called the Brooklyn grand jury a "witch hunt." But he made a special trip home this week to apologize for the remark.

The Brooklyn grand jury announced yesterday that it is calling O'Dwyer as a witness. No date was set.

The Senate committee wound up two days of hearings here with a threat to cite for contempt one of its key witnesses, Meyer Lansky.

Kefauver said Lansky refused to say whether Gambler Joe Adonis, Bookmaker Frank Erickson and reputed Crime Leader Charles Fischetti were business associates of his.

He did admit knowing the trio however, Kefauver told newsmen.

West Skeptical Of Russia's New Peace Proposals

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 12 (AP) — Kenneth Younger, British minister of state, called on Russia's Andrei Vishinsky today "to give us some indication he really has a genuine intention of trying to reconcile differences."

It was the West's answer, in the 60-nation Assembly Political Committee debates on the Acheson plan, to two Russian proposals demanding Big Five security talks and a speed-up of efforts to organize U. N. forces under security Council supervision.

Matches U. S. Reaction

Younger's statement matched U. S. reaction: The proposals are not new, they are provided for long ago in the Charter, and only Russian obstruction for four years has stood in the way of making them effective.

Bolivia, Mexico and Venezuela brought to 27 the nations endorsing the general aims of the Acheson plan. Two countries have been on the fence and four of the five countries in the Russian bloc have already spoken against it.

The American-backed seven-power plan provides for quick emergency Assembly sessions when the Security Council fails to act on an aggression; setting up U.N. armed force units in every country; peace patrols to report on trouble spots; and a commission to survey U.N. member resources for a common defense pool.

Debate Nearing Close

Twelve speakers remained on the list for the general debate when this afternoon's session opened. The U. S. and the Soviet Union are scheduled to wind up the general discussion.

Vishinsky absented himself from the morning session to work on the final Russian statement and missed hearing a Bolivian denunciation of his action in dictating the appointment of a cabinet in Romania.

The general debate was nearing a close but several days of argument of separate provisions was in store.

Rhee Regime Barred From North Korea

U.N. Civil Rule Will Be Set Up

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 12 (AP) — The U. N. Commission on Korea today limited the authority of the Syngman Rhee government to South Korea and empowered Gen. Douglas MacArthur to set up United Nations civil rule in North Korea.

The commission unanimously approved at a closed meeting an Australian proposal to exclude the Rhee regime from areas beyond the 38th parallel until nationwide elections can be held. This will have the effect of putting Rhee before the Korean voters again.

Immediately after the vote, the commission cabled its decision to Gen. MacArthur, thus giving him the go ahead to establish civil rule in the liberated northern area.

Seven-Member Commission

Under the Australian proposal, officers representing various national armies fighting under the U. N. colors will be associated with the civil administration.

Informed circles said the main purpose of the Australian proposal was to preserve freedom of action for the commission in Northern Korea until the elections are held. The seven-member commission will start operating in Korea as soon as the military situation permits.

The commission's action came as the Russians delayed U. N. Economic and Social Council debates on Korean relief and rehabilitation by a surprise attempt to seat Red China.

Soviet Proposal Defeated

After an hour and a half of heated exchanuges between Russia's Amazasp A. Arutiunian and Nationalist China's Dr. Tsune-Chi Yu the council defeated the Soviet proposal 11 to 1. Britain, India, Pakistan and Denmark joined Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia in the vote. The United States opposed the proposal on grounds that the question of Chinese U. N. representation is for the General Assembly to decide.

Australia's proposal to keep the Rhee government temporarily out of North Korea reflected the views of some U. N. delegations that resistance in the north will soften if the Koreans are offered a chance ultimately to establish a broader-based government.

Ex-Cop Admits He Beat Negro

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12 (AP) — An ex-policeman once acquitted of a murder charge in the death of a young negro jail prisoner admitted today that he beat the negro with a rubber hose and a stick.

Twenty-four-year-old Doyle Mitchum voluntarily appeared in U. S. District Court and pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him and another Lafayette, Ala., policeman, James R. Clark, with violating the negro's civil rights.

The officers arested the negro, 18-year-old Willie B. Carlisle, last Feb. 18 because, they said, he let the air out of a tire on their police car. The prisoner died of severe head injuries.

Indicted on murder charges in state court, Mitchum and Clark pleaded innocent, contending the negro died from a fall. A Circuit Court jury acquitted them after a one-day trial.

The FBI then began an investigation that resulted in a federal grand jury indicting the former officers on the civil rights charges. Their trial was set for Oct. 30.

When Mitchum pleaded guilty to count one of the two-count indictment, Judge C. B. Kennamer postponed fixing his sentence until Clark is tried on Oct. 30. Maximum sentence is a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Erle Cocke Elected Legion Leader; Delegates Demand State Department Shakeup

Secretary Acheson Target Of Resolution

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12 (AP)—Erle Cocke, Jr., 29-year-old World War II hero, today was named national commander of the American Legion by sweltering delegates who earlier demanded shakeup of the State Department.

Cocke, an airlines executive from Dawson, Ga., succeeds George N. Craig, Brazil, Ind., attorney, in the top Legion post. He was elected virtually without opposition by shirt-sleeved delegates perspiring under 99 degree temperature, hottest Oct. 12 here in history.

The temperature was almost as hot as the argument which raged over whether Secretary of State Dean Acheson should be censured by name in a resolution condemning the State Department's "failure x x x to deal adequately with the grim and bloody advance of Communism throughout the world."

Acheson Not Named

As passed, the resolution did not name Acheson or suggest his ouster, but it left no doubt that he is its target. And instead of urging that President Truman "reconstitute" the State Department, as the resolution drafted by the Foreign Affairs Committee had read, it demanded that he do so.

Cocke, accepting his unanimous election, pledged himself to carry out the Legion program.

The convention voted commendation of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, and Louis Johnson for his services as defense chief. There was some objection to the latter, but the vote was overwhelming.

The Legion's Security Committee report also was adopted, advocating: Universal military training; civilian defense with local autonomy, spearheaded by Legion individuals; placing the Merchant Marine under military control in wartime, with the same pay for merchant sailors as for others in military service.

Gen. Reckord Honored

There was an echo of the argument over a Navy super-carrier—side-tracked by Johnson when he was the defense head—in a recommendation for construction of long-range, flush-deck carriers for which the committee said the Korean war has shown a need.

The Legion's highest honor—its Distinguished Service Medal—was presented to Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Annapolis, Md., for outstanding service in the National Guard. Gen. Reckord was provost marshal in the European theater and now is Adjutant General of Maryland.

ERLE COCKE, JR. . . . . New commander of American Legion.

Truman At West Coast Air Base; Hawaii Next Stop

En Route To Pacific To Meet MacArthur

FAIRFIELD-SUISUN AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP) — President Truman landed at this west coast air base tonight en route to the Pacific to get Gen. MacArthur's formula for preventing Communist threats in the far east from erupting into another war.

The presidential plane, the "Independence," came down here at 10:14 p. m. (EST) at the end of a 2,040-mile flight from St. Louis. Fairfield-Suisun field is about 60 miles east of San Francisco.

Mr. Truman was to take off again at 3:30 a. m. (EST) Friday for Hickam Field, Honolulu. From there he will proceed to the rendezvous with Gen. MacArthur—possibly at Wake Island.

Amid world speculation on the reasons behind the meeting, which probably will start some time Saturday, Mr. Truman expressed hope the exchange of views will produce "some contribution to the peace of the world."

The President took off from the St. Louis Municipal airport at 3:28 p. m. (EST) after attending a private luncheon honoring his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, and other new officers of the Missouri chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

He spoke for seven minutes at the luncheon, but did not discuss his weekend trip to the Pacific. Newsmen were barred from the meeting and no transcript was made of the President's remarks.

But at ceremonies last night at which Miss Truman was installed as grand worthy matron of the order, Mr. Truman said he had worked hard as President to attain a peaceful world, and added:

"I think, in spite of conditions which are prevailing in the Far East, that we are making progress toward that point."

Brief Meeting Expected

TOKYO, Oct. 13 (Friday) (INS)—President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur will meet for only a few hours Saturday on some mid-Pacific island, probably Wake Island, International News Service learned today.

After the brief meeting Gen. MacArthur will hurry back to Tokyo to continue active leadership of the Korean war.

The General can fly to Wake Island in less than 10 hours and the President can make it from Honolulu to Wake in seven hours.

Visas To Aliens Are Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The government today announced a temporary world-wide "freeze" on passport visas to aliens seeking to enter the United States. The action was taken under the tough new Communist-control law.

The shutdown in effect threw a screen around this country pending clarification of the statute which Congress passed over President Truman's veto.

The State Department issued the suspension order as scores of aliens—chiefly Germans and Italians—were detained at Ellis Island, New York, and many hundreds of others were on the high seas en route to American ports.

Crew members on some foreign ships arriving in this country were also barred from going ashore.

The State Department cabled U. S. embassies and consulates all over the world to hold up visas—entry permits—until they can recheck the background of aliens planning to come to the United States.

Canada Makes U.S. Guns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Navy today placed an order with a Canadian firm for guns worth $10,000,000.

It announced that Sorel Industry Ltd., of Sorel, Quebec, will supply a quantity of 3-inch, 50-caliber rapid-fire anti-aircraft guns for use on large combat vessels.

37 Ships Take Part In Attack; Big Port Afire

Might Be Prelude To Allied Landing

TOKYO, Friday, Oct. 13 (AP) — The U. S. battleship Missouri led a naval force of 37 ships Thursday in a searing attack on nearly 130 miles of North Korea's east coast — almost to the Siberian-Manchurian border.

The big iron and steel port of Chongjin was set aflame as the 16-inch guns of the Mighty Mo poured more than 800,000 pounds of hot shells into the city in less than an hour, the Navy said.

The fierce bombardment, reminiscent of those that devastated the coast of Japan late in World War II, might be the prelude to a United Nations landing, but this remained a matter of speculation.

American and British cruisers, American and Australian destroyers and American aircraft carriers worked over an area extending from Songjin "practically to the very edge of the Manchurian border," the Navy said today. It is 130 miles from Songjin to that border.

British Planes Strike

British carrier-based planes simultaneously struck the North Korean west coast 65 miles southwest of the Red capital of Pyongyang.

United Nations ground troops were advancing relentlessly on the North Korean capital of Pyongyang from the south and southeast against weakening Red resistance.

The attack on Chongjin, on the northeast coast, could be the softening-up process for an Allied landing, or it could be a diversion to draw attention from a landing elsewhere. It also could be merely a routine smash at targets of opportunity.

The Sept. 15 Allied landings at Inchon, on the west coast, which led to smashing of the Red invasion of South Korea, were preceded by similar strong naval bombardment and a simultaneous diversion on the east coast.

Chongjin is an iron and steel port of 190,000 population, 49 air miles southwest of the Korean-Siberia border and 43 miles southeast of the Korean-Manchuria border at the closest points. It is linked by rail with the rest of North Korea and with Manchuria.

Cruiser Leads Strike

Carrier-based planes rocketed the city for two days before the attack from the sea opened Thursday.

The U. S. cruiser Helena led the sea strike with a quick shelling from close up, with her 8-inch guns. Then the ponderous Missouri began throwing in one-ton missiles from three of her nine 16-inch guns.

The U. S. cruiser Worcester, the British cruiser Ceylon, and the Australian destroyer Warramunga also participated.

AP Photographer-Correspondent Gene Herrick, who watched the assault from the decks of the Missouri, said part of the city was ablaze after one hour of shelling.

Capt. Jeffrey Brock of the Canadian Navy said that in addition to the Changjin attack, three Canadian destroyers on patrol had hit east coast points. He did not identify them.

Herrick quoted a Navy officer as saying the results of the Missouri's attack were good.

Sawyer Urges Western Hemisphere Solidarity

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer tonight called on the nations of the Western Hemisphere to pool their efforts and resources to combat the totalitarian threat to freedom.

In a Columbus Day banquet address before representatives of every Latin America nation, Canada and the United States, Secretary Sawyer said the 22 nations of the Western Hemisphere "must do our utmost to prepare ourselves for whatever emergency may lie ahead."

Had Hands Full

Vet Keeps Tiny Son Alive With Formula He 'Made Up'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 12 (AP)—Marvin Adkins decided his new son was such a little baby—"you can cradle him in your two hands"—that maybe he had better take him to a hospital.

So he brought three-day-old Gregory Lynn here from Sumiton, a mining community. The baby weighed just two pounds, six ounces.

Adkins, 26, and a high school student under the GI Bill of Rights, told a reporter:

"Tuesday my wife, who was 6½ months pregnant, got sick. We called the doctor and he delivered Gregory Lynn. He told me then there was little chance of him living.

"But I thought, well as long as he's living there's always hope, so I started feeding him a formula that I made up myself. I'd feed him a couple of drops at a time from an eyedropper and keep him well wrapped up and he seemed to be getting along all right.

"But you see besides looking after Gregory Lynn, I was also taking care of my wife and my two other sons, Marlin Dale, who is three, and Boyce Neal, 19 months.

Later Tuesday Adkins helped his 31-year-old wife deliver Gregory's twin. It was born dead.

Doctors at Childrens Hospital said the tiny infant was in fair condition and had lost little of his original weight.

Oklahoman Named RFC Board Chairman

WASHNGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) — Elmer Harber, Oklahoma banker and supporter of Truman "Fair Deal" policies, is the new chairman of the board of the multi-billion dollar Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

He succeeds Harley Hise, dropped by President Truman in a reshuffle that brought three new men, including Harber, onto the board.

Maine Sets Up Posts

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 12 (AP) — Maine has set up 340 aircraft observation posts to help warn the nation of any impending enemy attack, the state civil defense director said today.

Court Rules Congress Candidates Need Not Sign Md. Loyalty Affidavit

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 12 (AP) — The Court of Appeals ruled today a candidate for governor has to sign a special state loyalty oath, but a candidate for Congress does not.

The decision upheld one arm of a Progressive Party attack on Maryland's razor-edged law against subversives.

Filed without comment, it disclosed a split among the five appellate judges who made the first distinct ruling on the so-called Ober law.

Judges William L. Henderson and Charles Markell disagreed with the majority which ordered a Progressive Party nominee for governor to sign the loyalty affidavit or be kept off general election ballots.

The five were unanimous in declaring Maryland cannot require the pledge from a congressional candidate.

The court promised to set forth its reasons in an opinion to be filed later, probably next month.

The decision itself means:

1. Louis Shub, who wants to run for governor, must sign a pledge that he is not a subversive. Otherwise his name will not appear on the ballots, Nov. 7.

2. Thelma Gerende's name will be on the ballots as a candidate for Congress in the Second District, although she refused on constitutional grounds to sign the oath.

Retailers Oppose Tighter Credit Curbs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Retail trade representatives today voiced strong opposition to wage-price and rationing controls at present.

They urged that consumer credit curbs be relaxed instead of tightened.

Spokesmen for a number of national retail dealer associations told government officials sales have fallen off since the credit curbs were imposed September 18, and that retail prices have declined already "in some areas."

The retailers spoke up at a meeting with officials of the National Production Authority, Commerce Department controls agency, and amplified their remarks to newsmen later.

Record?

Ohio Woman Gives Birth To 11th Daughter In A Row

ATHENS, O., Oct. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Frances Gillette, Stroud's Run, O., celebrated her 35th birthday today—24 hours after giving birth to her 11th consecutive daughter.

Mrs. Gillette's physician said he thought the Ohio mother had set some sort of record by having 11 girls in 15 years without ever having had a son.

"I don't care much about the record," smiled Mrs. Gillette from her bed in Sheltering Arms Hospital.

Mrs. Gillette, a heavy-set brunette with a ready smile and an utterly relaxed viewpoint on life, said "I don't mind at all" having all girls.

She smiled when someone commented that the father, Harold Lee Gillette, 41, probably was disappointed in not having a son along the line.

"You can't have everything," she said calmly. "He'll just have to be disappointed."

Matches U. S. Reaction

Younger's statement matched U. S. reaction: The proposals are not new, they are provided for long ago in the Charter, and only Russian obstruction for four years has stood in the way of making them effective.

Bolivia, Mexico and Venezuela brought to 27 the nations endorsing the general aims of the Acheson plan. Two countries have been on the fence and four of the five countries in the Russian bloc have already spoken against it.

The American-backed seven-power plan provides for quick emergency Assembly sessions when the Security Council fails to act on an aggression; setting up U.N. armed force units in every country; peace patrols to report on trouble spots; and a commission to survey U.N. member resources for a common defense pool.

Debate Nearing Close

Twelve speakers remained on the list for the general debate when this afternoon's session opened. The U. S. and the Soviet Union are scheduled to wind up the general discussion.

Vishinsky absented himself from the morning session to work on the final Russian statement and missed hearing a Bolivian denunciation of his action in dictating the appointment of a cabinet in Romania.

The general debate was nearing a close but several days of argument of separate provisions was in store.

Rhee Regime Barred From North Korea

U.N. Civil Rule Will Be Set Up

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 12 (AP) — The U. N. Commission on Korea today limited the authority of the Syngman Rhee government to South Korea and empowered Gen. Douglas MacArthur to set up United Nations civil rule in North Korea.

The commission unanimously approved at a closed meeting an Australian proposal to exclude the Rhee regime from areas beyond the 38th parallel until nationwide elections can be held. This will have the effect of putting Rhee before the Korean voters again.

Immediately after the vote, the commission cabled its decision to Gen. MacArthur, thus giving him the go ahead to establish civil rule in the liberated northern area.

Seven-Member Commission

Under the Australian proposal, officers representing various national armies fighting under the U. N. colors will be associated with the civil administration.

Informed circles said the main purpose of the Australian proposal was to preserve freedom of action for the commission in Northern Korea until the elections are held. The seven-member commission will start operating in Korea as soon as the military situation permits.

The commission's action came as the Russians delayed U. N. Economic and Social Council debates on Korean relief and rehabilitation by a surprise attempt to seat Red China.

Soviet Proposal Defeated

After an hour and a half of heated exchanuges between Russia's Amazasp A. Arutiniuan and Nationalist China's Dr. Tsune-Chi Yu the council defeated the Soviet proposal 11 to 1. Britain, India, Pakistan and Denmark joined Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia in the vote. The United States opposed the proposal on grounds that the question of Chinese U. N. representation is for the General Assembly to decide.

Australia's proposal to keep the Rhee government temporarily out of North Korea reflected the views of some U. N. delegations that resistance in the north will soften if the Koreans are offered a chance ultimately to establish a broader-based government.

Ex-Cop Admits He Beat Negro

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12 (AP) — An ex-policeman once acquitted of a murder charge in the death of a young negro jail prisoner admitted today that he beat the negro with a rubber hose and a stick.

Twenty-four-year-old Doyle Mitchum voluntarily appeared in U. S. District Court and pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him and another Lafayette, Ala., policeman, James R. Clark, with violating the negro's civil rights.

The officers arested the negro, 18-year-old Willie B. Carlisle, last Feb. 18 because, they said, he let the air out of a tire on their police car. The prisoner died of severe head injuries.

Indicted on murder charges in state court, Mitchum and Clark pleaded innocent, contending the negro died from a fall. A Circuit Court jury acquitted them after a one-day trial.

The FBI then began an investigation that resulted in a federal grand jury indicting the former officers on the civil rights charges. Their trial was set for Oct. 30.

When Mitchum pleaded guilty to count one of the two-count indictment, Judge C. B. Kennamer postponed fixing his sentence until Clark is tried on Oct. 30. Maximum sentence is a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Court Rules Congress Candidates Need Not Sign Md. Loyalty Affidavit

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 12 (AP) — The Court of Appeals ruled today a candidate for governor has to sign a special state loyalty oath, but a candidate for Congress does not.

The decision upheld one arm of a Progressive Party attack on Maryland's razor-edged law against subversives.

Filed without comment, it disclosed a split among the five appellate judges who made the first distinct ruling on the so-called Ober law.

Judges William L. Henderson and Charles Markell disagreed with the majority which ordered a Progressive Party nominee for governor to sign the loyalty affidavit or be kept off general election ballots.

The five were unanimous in declaring Maryland cannot require the pledge from a congressional candidate.

The court promised to set forth its reasons in an opinion to be filed later, probably next month.

The decision itself means:

1. Louis Shub, who wants to run for governor, must sign a pledge that he is not a subversive. Otherwise his name will not appear on the ballots, Nov. 7.

2. Thelma Gerende's name will be on the ballots as a candidate for Congress in the Second District, although she refused on constitutional grounds to sign the oath.

Erle Cocke Elected Legion Leader; Delegates Demand State Department Shakeup

Secretary Acheson Target Of Resolution

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12 (AP)—Erle Cocke, Jr., 29-year-old World War II hero, today was named national commander of the American Legion by sweltering delegates who earlier demanded shakeup of the State Department.

Cocke, an airlines executive from Dawson, Ga., succeeds George N. Craig, Brazil, Ind., attorney, in the top Legion post. He was elected virtually without opposition by shirt-sleeved delegates perspiring under 99 degree temperature, hottest Oct. 12 here in history.

ERLE COCKE, JR. . . . . New commander of American Legion.

The temperature was almost as hot as the argument which raged over whether Secretary of State Dean Acheson should be censured by name in a resolution condemning the State Department's "failure x x x to deal adequately with the grim and bloody advance of Communism throughout the world."

Acheson Not Named

As passed, the resolution did not name Acheson or suggest his ouster, but it left no doubt that he is its target. And instead of urging that President Truman "reconstitute" the State Department, as the resolution drafted by the Foreign Affairs Committee had read, it demanded that he do so.

Cocke, accepting his unanimous election, pledged himself to carry out the Legion program.

The convention voted commendation of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, and Louis Johnson for his services as defense chief. There was some objection to the latter, but the vote was overwhelming.

The Legion's Security Committee report also was adopted, advocating:

Universal military training; civilian defense with local autonomy, spearheaded by Legion individuals; placing the Merchant Marine under military control in wartime, with the same pay for merchant sailors as for others in military service.

Gen. Reckord Honored

There was an echo of the argument over a Navy super-carrier—side-tracked by Johnson when he was the defense head—in a recommendation for construction of long-range, flush-deck carriers for which the committee said the Korean war has shown a need.

The Legion's highest honor—its Distinguished Service Medal—was presented to Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Annapolis, Md., for outstanding service in the National Guard. Gen. Reckord was provost marshal in the European theater and now is Adjutant General of Maryland.

Truman At West Coast Air Base; Hawaii Next Stop

En Route To Pacific To Meet MacArthur

FAIRFIELD-SUISUN AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP) — President Truman landed at this west coast air base tonight en route to the Pacific to get Gen. MacArthur's formula for preventing Communist threats in the far east from erupting into another war.

The presidential plane, the "Independence," came down here at 10:14 p. m. (EST) at the end of a 2,040-mile flight from St. Louis. Fairfield-Suisun field is about 60 miles east of San Francisco.

Mr. Truman was to take off again at 3:30 a. m. (EST) Friday for Hickam Field, Honolulu. From there he will proceed to the rendezvous with Gen. MacArthur—possibly at Wake Island.

Amid world speculation on the reasons behind the meeting, which probably will start some time Saturday, Mr. Truman expressed hope the exchange of views will produce "some contribution to the peace of the world."

The President took off from the St. Louis Municipal airport at 3:28 p. m. (EST) after attending a private luncheon honoring his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, and other new officers of the Missouri chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

He spoke for seven minutes at the luncheon, but did not discuss his weekend trip to the Pacific. Newsmen were barred from the meeting and no transcript was made of the President's remarks.

But at ceremonies last night at which Miss Truman was installed as grand worthy matron of the order, Mr. Truman said he had worked hard as President to attain a peaceful world, and added:

"I think, in spite of conditions which are prevailing in the Far East, that we are making progress toward that point."

Brief Meeting Expected

TOKYO, Oct. 13 (Friday) (INS)—President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur will meet for only a few hours Saturday on some mid-Pacific island, probably Wake Island, International News Service learned today.

After the brief meeting Gen. MacArthur will hurry back to Tokyo to continue active leadership of the Korean war.

The General can fly to Wake Island in less than 10 hours and the President can make it from Honolulu to Wake in seven hours.

Retailers Oppose Tighter Credit Curbs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Retail trade representatives today voiced strong opposition to wage-price and rationing controls at present.

They urged that consumer credit curbs be relaxed instead of tightened.

Spokesmen for a number of national retail dealer associations told government officials sales have fallen off since the credit curbs were imposed September 18, and that retail prices have declined already "in some areas."

The retailers spoke up at a meeting with officials of the National Production Authority, Commerce Department controls agency, and amplified their remarks to newsmen later.

Visas To Aliens Are Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The government today announced a temporary world-wide "freeze" on passport visas to aliens seeking to enter the United States. The action was taken under the tough new Communist-control law.

The shutdown in effect threw a screen around this country pending clarification of the statute which Congress passed over President Truman's veto.

The State Department issued the suspension order as scores of aliens—chiefly Germans and Italians—were detained at Ellis Island, New York, and many hundreds of others were on the high seas en route to American ports.

Crew members on some foreign ships arriving in this country were also barred from going ashore.

The State Department cabled U. S. embassies and consulates all over the world to hold up visas—entry permits—until they can recheck the background of aliens planning to come to the United States.

Canada Makes U.S. Guns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Navy today placed an order with a Canadian firm for guns worth $10,000,000.

It announced that Sorel Industry Ltd., of Sorel, Quebec, will supply a quantity of 3-inch, 50-caliber rapid-fire anti-aircraft guns for use on large combat vessels.

37 Ships Take Part In Attack; Big Port Afire

Might Be Prelude To Allied Landing

TOKYO, Friday, Oct. 13 (AP) — The U. S. battleship Missouri led a naval force of 37 ships Thursday in a searing attack on nearly 130 miles of North Korea's east coast — almost to the Siberian-Manchurian border.

The big iron and steel port of Chongjin was set aflame as the 16-inch guns of the Mighty Mo poured more than 800,000 pounds of hot shells into the city in less than an hour, the Navy said.

The fierce bombardment, reminiscent of those that devastated the coast of Japan late in World War II, might be the prelude to a United Nations landing, but this remained a matter of speculation.

American and British cruisers, American and Australian destroyers and American aircraft carriers worked over an area extending from Songjin "practically to the very edge of the Manchurian border," the Navy said today. It is 130 miles from Songjin to that border.

British Planes Strike

British carrier-based planes simultaneously struck the North Korean west coast 65 miles southwest of the Red capital of Pyongyang.

United Nations ground troops were advancing relentlessly on the North Korean capital of Pyongyang from the south and southeast against weakening Red resistance.

The attack on Chongjin, on the northeast coast, could be the softening-up process for an Allied landing, or it could be a diversion to draw attention from a landing elsewhere. It also could be merely a routine smash at targets of opportunity.

The Sept. 15 Allied landings at Inchon, on the west coast, which led to smashing of the Red invasion of South Korea, were preceded by similar strong naval bombardment and a simultaneous diversion on the east coast.

Chongjin is an iron and steel port of 190,000 population, 49 air miles southwest of the Korean-Siberia border and 43 miles southeast of the Korean-Manchuria border at the closest points. It is linked by rail with the rest of North Korea and with Manchuria.

Cruiser Leads Strike

Carrier-based planes rocketed the city for two days before the attack from the sea opened Thursday.

The U. S. cruiser Helena led the sea strike with a quick shelling from close up, with her 8-inch guns. Then the ponderous Missouri began throwing in one-ton missiles from three of her nine 16-inch guns.

The U. S. cruiser Worcester, the British cruiser Ceylon, and the Australian destroyer Warramunga also participated.

AP Photographer-Correspondent Gene Herrick, who watched the assault from the decks of the Missouri, said part of the city was ablaze after one hour of shelling.

Capt. Jeffrey Brock of the Canadian Navy said that in addition to the Changjin attack, three Canadian destroyers on patrol had hit east coast points. He did not identify them.

Herrick quoted a Navy officer as saying the results of the Missouri's attack were good.

Sawyer Urges Western Hemisphere Solidarity

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer tonight called on the nations of the Western Hemisphere to pool their efforts and resources to combat the totalitarian threat to freedom.

In a Columbus Day banquet address before representatives of every Latin America nation, Canada and the United States, Secretary Sawyer said the 22 nations of the Western Hemisphere "must do our utmost to prepare ourselves for whatever emergency may lie ahead."

Record?

Ohio Woman Gives Birth To 11th Daughter In A Row

ATHENS, O., Oct. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Frances Gillette, Stroud's Run, O., celebrated her 35th birthday today—24 hours after giving birth to her 11th consecutive daughter.

Mrs. Gillette's physician said he thought the Ohio mother had set some sort of record by having 11 girls in 15 years without ever having had a son.

"I don't care much about the record," smiled Mrs. Gillette from her bed in Sheltering Arms Hospital.

Mrs. Gillette, a heavy-set brunette with a ready smile and an utterly relaxed viewpoint on life, said "I don't mind at all" having all girls.

She smiled when someone commented that the father, Harold Lee Gillette, 41, probably was disappointed in not having a son along the line.

"You can't have everything," she said calmly. "He'll just have to be disappointed."

Had Hands Full

Vet Keeps Tiny Son Alive With Formula He 'Made Up'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 12 (AP)—Marvin Adkins decided his new son was such a little baby—"you can cradle him in your two hands"—that maybe he had better take him to a hospital.

So he brought three-day-old Gregory Lynn here from Sumiton, a mining community. The baby weighed just two pounds, six ounces.

Adkins, 26, and a high school student under the GI Bill of Rights, told a reporter:

"Tuesday my wife, who was 6½ months pregnant, got sick. We called the doctor and he delivered Gregory Lynn. He told me then there was little chance of him living.

"But I thought, well as long as he's living there's always hope, so I started feeding him a formula that I made up myself. I'd feed him a couple of drops at a time from an eyedropper and keep him well wrapped up and he seemed to be getting along all right.

"But you see besides looking after Gregory Lynn, I was also taking care of my wife and my two other sons, Marlin Dale, who is three, and Boyce Neal, 19 months.

Later Tuesday Adkins helped his 31-year-old wife deliver Gregory's twin. It was born dead.

Doctors at Childrens Hospital said the tiny infant was in fair condition and had lost little of his original weight.

Aged Farmer Fatally Hurt

Albert Newton McCauley, Slanesville, W. Va., a 76-year-old farmer, was fatally injured Tuesday when his automobile careened from an "off-side road" and plunged down a 20-foot embankment about eight miles west of Romney, W. Va.

West Virginia State Police said that McCauley died shortly after 4 p. m.

Authorities surmised that McCauley, riding alone, left the road near the junction of Routes 220 and 9 about 11:15 a. m. A passing motorist found his dazed but conscious around noon and took him to the nearby Hazel Hartman home, where he died.

The Hartman woman told police she heard a noise "in the distance" but did not investigate. McCauley was thrown through the top of the car as it rolled down the embankment. He landed clear of the wreckage and was found standing.

McCauley's death was attributed to shock, but Dr. J. F. Easton said his right side was crushed. He suffered no head injuries since the top of his old-model vehicle was constructed of a "flimsy material."

Authorities said McCauley, soaking wet, was found near a stream where the car wrecked. He was still wearing his eye glasses.

Boy Scout Week Plans Discussed

Plans for observance of Boy Scout Week next February were discussed Tuesday night at a meeting of about 70 Cub and Scout officials of Cumberland District, Potomac Council.

The meeting was held at St. Mary's recreation hall.

George Sellers, district chairman, said the group discussed the possibility of holding a pageant during the observance. Further plans will be made at later meetings.

Jack Towler was nominated for district chairman to succeed Sellers. The election will be held November 14.

Free Above All

Opening a new "Orlon" plant at Camden, S. C., President Crawford H. Greenewalt of the duPont Company expressed special satisfaction in the knowledge that South Carolinians are proud of their freedom and independence. Then he went on to prove that he had paid them no idle compliment.

"These are qualities badly needed in the United States today," he said. "We need them as states, and as corporations, and as individuals, for they are vital to our future progress as they have been to our past accomplishments.

"This is true in the industrial sense as it is in the political sense," he continued, "for in the modern world it is obvious that the strength of nations can be no greater than the strength of their industry. The freedom to develop and expand our manufactures is essential if we are to exist as a free and independent nation."

Mr. Greenswalt threw a new light on the contention that free government and free enterprise must go hand in hand if either is to survive. This emphasis on economic liberty, he declared, is the best answer to the propagandists behind the Iron Curtain who are striking at the faith of Americans in their economic system. He offered, as a counter to the "Big Lie," the story of American industrial development—the "Big Truth."

The suggestion is sound. The history of the United States reflects the link between political freedom and human welfare. This nation's history also shows that economic liberty has produced the world's highest standard of living. Mr. Greenewalt observed that communism has gained ground only in nations where the economy was static or sick. He concluded that America's best weapon against it is "a sound, flourishing, and above all else a free economy."

The regimented economy will not stay sound or flourishing for long.

Communist Competition

The Central Reform Commitee of the Chinese Nationalist Party has taken a step which would be astounding for a political party in a western nation, in the United States, for instance. In China, where such stress is laid on "face," it borders on the fantastic. The committee, speaking officially for its party, the Kuomintang, has taken on the shoulders of that party the blame for China's present crisis. Its pronouncement says the party must admit its mistakes and try to retrieve them.

Naturally this is the prelude to a call for the reconquest of the mainland of China, now held by the communists. But the call says that along with the reconquest must go political reform. Moreover the reforms are to be tried at once in the only territory still held by the Nationalist government, the Island of Formosa.

The reform program would recommit the Kuomintang to the three principles of Sun Yat-sen—nationalism, democracy and livelihood. (During its reign the Kuomintang did a remarkable job of building Chinese nationalism. On the other two it fell far short). The program would equalize wealth through taxation, would institute constitutional government based on local self-rule, and would seek land reforms and improved worker conditions, but through private enterprise.

With such a program, earnestly carried out, the Kuomintang once could have offered effective competition to the communist propagandists. Now it seems rather late. If American wishing could make it so, there might be a second chance.

Advice To A Giant

"O it is excellent to have a giant's strength," Shakespeare has written, "but it is tyrannous to use it like a giant." This is a doctrine that has rarely carried much appeal for the high brass. Russia's present leaders would consider it pure nonsense.

It is therefore most heartening to observe present-day American military men giving their own paraphrases of Shakespeare's warning. They see a new military budget that will give America a giant's strength. They know the nation must have that strength to defend itself against the Russian giant.

But these old war horses do not scent the battle and cry "Ha, ha!" They are uneasy lest Americans jump to the conclusion that military power is enough.

General Eisenhower warns that an America relying on military power alone would become a "corpse in armor." Even America's military potential, he says, is not a matter of arms and troops alone, but of farms and factories and transport and science and invention and a way of life.

General Eisenhower also implies that freedom cannot survive much more war. Already most of the world is having a hard struggle overcoming the destruction of war and the despair that is its aftermath. Unless America, in building its gigantic strength, can develop gigantic wisdom and moral force to match, the outlook is well nigh hopeless.

TV And The Three Rs

Can television be an effective part of teaching? There are excellent reasons for believing that it can. Closed circuit (circuits not available to regular sets) telecasts have been used in schools in several large cities in the East. The Naval Reserve is using them to advantage in linking a series of training centers in the New York area.

Visual aids are one of the most effective tools in education. For practical purposes TV has it all over films because the latter are expensive to make, and usually become outdated in a short period of time. But a TV lesson, emanating from a central point, can be as fresh as today's newspaper.

How To Live With Diabetes

"Learn as if you are to live forever;
Live as if you would die tomorrow."
Isidore of Seville
(7th century)

THIS is a wonderful philosofy for all but it applies particularly to the diabetic. Since the discovery of insulin the life expectancy of this group has increased considerably. By learning more about the disease, many of the pitfalls are overcome and the prospects for health and longevity are greater. Scientists who believe that a better treatment or a cure for diabetes is just around the corner have dedicated themselves to the task of finding the solution. So much has been done already that there is no need for victims of the disease to become discouraged or feel that they are severely handicapped.

In addition, there is no reason to believe that the diabetic is a mysterious human being. The malady is not difficult to understand and every diabetic should make it a point to read books on the subject and ask questions of his physician until he is well versed on the subject. (Send a stamped, self addressed envelope for list of books on diabetes.) The disturbance is a lifelong affliction and because the individual is forced to live with it he might just as well learn all about it. He will find, for example, that diabetic coma is one of the most common causes of death. If he recognizes the early symptoms and realizes what he can do about them he will be able to contend with this and other undesirable features of diabetes. Emergencies can be avoided but only if the setup is comprehended.

Knowledge of the ailment helps considerably in preparing the menus. This is not beyond the ability of the average man or woman; it is a matter of juggling grams of carbohydrates, proteins, and fats. The better the juggler, the greater the variety and the closer the meals will approximate those of the non-diabetic. This is a reward in itself and worth pursuing. The same can be said of insulin. It is not difficult to master the measurement of units and the injection technic. The well informed diabetic knows that various types of insulin are now available and why the hormone cannot be swallowed in tablet form. Testing the urine is another aspect of care but the procedure is easy because there have been so many improvements in technic that it is almost fool-proof.

• — • — •

The diabetic also should be encouraged to know that many famous people were diabetics. Dr. George R. Minot, who had the disease for 28 years, was most careful, as his long life bears witness. In this period he discovered that liver extract kept victims of pernicious anemia alive. It is becoming a common practice among some concerns to erase diabetes from the list of diseases that previously were considered an occupation hazard. More would do so were it not for the personal element. No one need worry about the diabetic who is conscientious and follows directions to a T, but his standing in industry is spoiled by the individual who is not taking care of himself. These men and women have a high rate of absenteeism and endanger not only themselves but their fellow workers. The woman with diabetes also is thankful for improvements that have been made. The disorder requires only five minutes of her time each day, far less than the average houswife spends each day visiting over the back fence with her neighbor. Pregnancy is safer too and it is possible for the diabetic woman to rear a family.

TOMORROW: Rehabilitating exercise for the ill.

REPLY

Yes, in that cirrhosis is only one of many forms of liver damage.

INJURED STERNUM

Mrs. O. writes: Is a broken breastbone dangerous to the health? Could it cause a sharp pain like gas or heartburn?

REPLY

If an injury is severe enough to fracture the breastbone, it may be severe enough to harm the underlying structures. Occasionally the heart is damaged and for this reason, X-ray and electrocardiogram are advised. In the circumstances, the symptoms are those you describe. But such mishaps are rare and I doubt if fracture of the structure has occurred in your case.

TULAREMIA

H. F. writes: What is hunter's disease?

REPLY

You probably refer to tularemia, an infection contracted from handling or eating wild rabbits or other animals that are sick with the disease. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this malady.

Personal And Political Risk For Kefauver In His Determination To Investigate Mafia; Real Dynamite In Hushed-Up Maragon-Vaughan Hearings

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Senator Kefauver's determination to investigate the Mafia requires a lot more courage than appears on the surface. Not only is it dangerous from the point of view of personal safety, but it is dangerous politically. For the Mafia has friends and protectors in very high places.

President Truman had no idea what was happening, and probably his naive military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, did not suspect it, but the Mafia was making a play for White House pull through the late William Helis, close friend and partner of Frankie Costello. The Senate Expenditures Committee was in the throes of unearthing real dynamite in regard to this during the Maragon - Vaughan investigation, when Senator Hoey considerately hushed the hearings up.

How the Mafia pulls wires in high places is illustrated by Sylvestro Carolla, New Orleans hatchet man for Louisiana's Mafia chief, Marcello, who helps operate Costello's gambling joints in and around New Orleans. Carolla's son, Anthony, is married to Marcello's niece, Maria Zaniatta, who came to the United States from Italy on a visitor's permit in 1947, but strangely has been allowed to remain here ever since. Obviously she could not have done so without political pull.

Carolla was convicted in 1921 for bootlegging, and spent a year and a day in Atlanta; was sentenced again in 1931 to 24 months for violating the narcotics laws; and in 1933 was sentenced to 8 to 15 years at hard labor for attempted murder. However, the Mafia has pull. And, one year after the attempted murder, Carolla was given a full pardon by the governor of Louisiana.

Two years later, in January, 1936, Carolla was slapped into Atlanta on a five-year sentence for a narcotics violation, and this time the federal government finally decided that he was not a useful citizen and ordered him deported. Whereupon Congressman James Morrison of Louisiana came to his rescue, introducing a series of private bills to keep him in this country. However, Carolla's record was too black even for political pull, and on April 30, 1947, he was deported from Boston by plane.

Two years later, he turned up in Mexico, operating out of Acapulco, having been ordered there by Lucky Luciano personally. And on July 4, 1950, Carolla was picked up in New Orleans, right back in his old stamping ground.

Secret Mafia Roll Call

Here is the hitherto unpublished roll call on more of the Mafia leaders, the most powerful rulers of crime in the United States:

FRANK CAPPOLA, alias "Three-Fingered Frank" — Cappola was prominent in the New Orleans Mafia, then showed up in Kansas City, where he was linked with the late Charley Binaggio. In fact, Binaggio aided Cappola to resist deportation in 1930 but failed. Cappola was deported but came back again, in May, 1949, with Binaggio on his $2,000 deportation bond.

Cappola set up headquarters in Tijuana, Mexico, and in 1949 Binaggio made an interesting trip to Mexico, stopping off to visit Cappola in Tijuana and Carolla in Acapulco. Once the Tijuana chief of police, Francisco Kraus, raided Cappola's headquarters in a Tijuana motel, and found with him Frank Bompenserio, a San Diego tavern owner and business associate of Jack Dragna, boss of the California Mafia.

Texas Gambling Lords

SAM MACEO of Galveston—Before 1920, Maceo was a humble Galveston barber. But he broke into the bootlegging racket, graduated to dope smuggling, then muscled into the gambling rackets, and now owns Galveston night clubs, bars and two hotels. Maceo is also a power in Texas politics. Born in Italy in 1894, his criminal record shows no convictions, only an acquittal on a New York narcotics rap Oct. 24, 1942.

BIAGGIO ANGELICA of Houston —Is Maceo's subordinate in the Mafia, has been linked with Maceo in narcotics smuggling, was sentenced to 10 years and fined $2,000 on a narcotics rap at Houston, Oct. 20, 1938; was sentenced to another eight years' imprisonment at Galveston Jan. 10, 1940, and still another two years at New York City Oct. 10, 1942, both on narcotics violations. Incidentally, the New York narcotics case was the same one in which Maceo was mixed up.

Missouri Mobsters

JOE DI GIOVANNI, alias Joe Church, Kansas City — Is Mafia chief in the Kansas City area, coming there from Brooklyn. Di Giovanni has been the big boss over such better-known bosses as Joe De Luca and the late Charles Binaggio. Di Giovanni's front is the Di Giovanni Wholesale Liquor Company, which incidentally has employed Paul Cantanzaro, a murder suspect, as night watchman. Di Giovanni's criminal history goes back to 1915 and includes arrests for everything from murder to rape, but he has never been convicted.

JOE DE LUCA, Kansas City—Is in charge of the narcotics branch of the Kansas City Mafia. He was arrested for bootlegging in Kansas City Dec. 17, 1930; sentenced to three years for dope smuggling, Kansas City, March 27, 1943; got out on parole after serving only one year, violated the parole by selling whisky across the Missouri state line, then got out on parole again after another month. Both paroles were arranged by ex-Congressman Tuck Milligan.

ANTHONY GIZZO, Kansas City —A close pal of the slain Charles Binaggio, he was arrested with Binaggio as far back as Jan. 18, 1930, in Denver for carrying a concealed weapon. One of Gizzo's jobs was "sales agent" for the Duke Sales Company, distributors of Canadian Ace beer, in which capacity he was supposed to persuade tavern keepers to buy Canadian Ace.

GAETANO LACOCA, Kansas City —A top Mafia hatchet man with a reputation as a gangland enforcer. He has his fingers in various Kansas City gambling enterprises, including an interest in the Last Chance tavern on the Kansas-Missouri state line.

TONY LOPIPARO, St. Louis—Chief of the St. Louis Mafia, but tied closely with the Kansas City crowd. Lopiparo slipped across the Mexican border to visit Frank Cappola and Sylvestro Carolla, the New Orleans Mafia members who were kicked out of the country, then sent back to Mexico by Lucky Luciano. An associate of Lopiparo's, Thomas Buffa, testified for the state on a minor matter in connection with the De Luca trial. After Buffa returned to St. Louis, an attempt was made to kill him. He fled to California where a shotgun blast ended his life in Lodi in 1946.

Ohio Hoodlums

FRANK MILANO, Akron, Ohio, and Mexico City—Top power of the Mafia in Ohio, is closely associated with Mafia leaders in Chicago and Michigan; was also boss of Cleveland's notorious Mayfield gang. Five years ago, Frank and his brother, Anthony, purchased a $50,000 home in Hollywood, where they were in close touch with the West Coast Mafia boss, Jack Dragna. Anthony also owns an interest in a foods company and Italian newspaper in Cleveland. Milano's criminal record goes back to 1913 and includes two charges of murder and several arrects for counterfeiting — but no convictions.

ALPHONSO POLIZZI, alias "Big Al," Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Coral Gables, Fla.—A powerful underworld figure, "Big Al" is second to Frank Milano in the Ohio Mafia and the Mayfield gang. "Big Al" also has his finger in various legitimate enterprises, including the olive oil, food-importing and beer-distributing businesses, and, more lately, the real-estate business in Coral Gables, Fla. Polizzi was convicted for violating the internal revenue laws in 1944, got four months and a $5,000 fine.

CHARLES VIZZINI, Youngstown, Ohio, and Coral Gables, Fla.—Mafia leader in the Youngstown area, owns the De Lux cafe, poses as a legitimate businessman, has been arrested for liquor violation, counterfeiting and murder, but never convicted.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

The Kremlin's Growing Stockpile

WASHINGTON

IT is now possible to give the accepted current intelligence estimates of Soviet production of atomic bombs. It is not possible, of course, to know how accurate these estimates are—there is no more difficult intelligence target than the Soviet Union. But it can be said that they are advanced with considerable confidence, and are accepted as a basis for American strategic planning.

The Soviets will have twenty-two bombs by the end of this year—by Dec. 31, 1950. Rightly or wrongly, this figure is considered wholly reliable. So is the estimate of current Soviet atomic production—two bombs a month. It is also confidently believed that this production rate will not be substantially increased during the year 1951. This gives a total Soviet stockpile of forty-six bombs by Jan. 1, 1952.

The Soviets are, however, now constructing a great new atomic production plant in the Urals. This plant is being built with all the relentless energy of which Lavrenti Beria, secret police chief charged with responsibility for Soviet atomic production, is capable. It is expected that it will come into production at about the beginning of 1952.

300 Bombs Expected

Here the estimates are, naturally, less precise. But it is believed that this new plant should step up the Soviet atomic production rate to between five and seven bombs a month. At this rate, by Jan. 1, 1953, the Soviet stockpile should amount to a minimum of just over 100 bombs, or a maximum of 130 bombs By the end of 1955, the Soviet stockpile is expected to total approximately 300 bombs.

It is believed that this may well be the upper limit of Soviet atomic production potential, given known uranium resources within the German and Czech uranium mines, now being worked with utmost ruthlessness under slave labor conditions, will yield only enough uranium for about 300 bombs.

This is no doubt what Winston Churchill meant when he said in a recent debate in Parliament, that "the extraordinary efforts which the Soviet Government are making to obtain even small quantities of uranium seem—I only say seem—to justify a hopeful view." But as Churchill was quick to point out, hope should not mean complacency. Even if no new Soviet sources are found, 300 bombs will be enough—enough, delivered by surprise with reasonable accuracy, to cripple the American war potential, which is all that stands between the Kremlin and world domination.

Yet as Churchill said, the rate of Soviet aromic production, as estimated above, does give us "a considerable interval." And as he also said, "it is this interval which we must not waste." In other words, we have some time—some time, but not very much.

If anything is certain, it is that the Kremlin will not consciously start a war which it cannot expect to win. And for at least two years, and perhaps longer, the Soviets could not expect to win a war, if these estimates of atomic production are correct. Even 100 bombs, delivered at the right time and in the right places, could do tremendous damage. But the Soviets will not be able to deliver 100 bombs at the right time in the right places even when the Soviet stockpile totals 100.

Delivery Problem

This is because of the problem of delivery. There are three main techniques of delivery. One is by bomb-laden merchant ships exploded in the harbors of coastal cities. But this is for technical reasons the least destructive way of using the bomb. Moreover, its effect would be confined to coastal areas and therefore could not be decisive. The second way is by guided missiles, fired from submarines. But again according to the most reliable intelligence, the Soviets do not now have and

Truman's MacArthur Visit Has Its Political Aspects

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Political Washington, which includes the strategists of both parties, has just about recovered from the shock it got when President Truman, without consulting anybody, suddenly announced that he was going to the Pacific to meet General MacArthur.

The general observation is that the President has managed to clothe the visit with an international importance that nobody can quite prove and with a domestic importance in the political campaign which everybody is quite willing to concede.

For, the skeptics say, if the incident really had the significance in world affairs that the announcement seeks to convey, then the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, would or should have gone to the meeting. It just isn't accepted that Mr. Truman is so conversant with the details of the important questions alleged to be under consideration that he can sit in for his own secretary of state. Conversely, if the men who are accompanying the President to advise him on matters of foreign policy—Messrs. Averell Harriman, Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk and Ambassador Philip C. Jessup—are the people who really make foreign policy nowadays, it tends to rank Secretary Acheson as of much less consequence than his opponents believe him to be.

Not Carefully Conceived

While the last 24 hours have given an opportunity for wide conjecture, certain bits of news have been released which throw more light on the whole subject.

First, it was disclosed at the White House that the idea of the trip was born abroad the presidential yacht on the recent week's cruise and hence, was not the carefully conceived plan of anybody in the Department of State or the Department of Defense, where it might have been suspected that policies of such major character would originate. The hasty summoning of Messrs. Harriman, Rusk and Jessup to pack their suitcases and get aboard a plane to travel halfway around the globe to participate in a conference for which there might ordinarily have been more preparation testifies to the impromptu nature of the whole affair.

Second, the mayor of San Francisco let the cat out of the bag by saying he did not know till someone in Washington told him that he was expected to invite the President to make a speech in the same opera house where the U. N. was created in 1945.

The mayor of any city which had that tradition to cherish would have been delighted to issue an invitation to the President to speak. But the fact remains the White House inspired the speech idea and this can only mean that someone with an eye to political effects and publicity in a campaign developed the whole plan and Mr. Truman accepted it promptly.

From a political viewpoint, Mr. Truman speaks in the area where there has been much opposition to his Far Eastern policy. But the speech will be broadcast nationally and it will have a larger audience than otherwise would have been the case because Mr. Truman will be delivering it after his talk with General MacArthur.

Wants To Offset Antagonism

The purpose of course is to offset, if that is possible, the antagonism to a foreign policy which last January announced that Korea would not be defended and then reversed itself in June without giving a word of warning to our military chiefs as to the obligation to fight that would be imposed on them. The casualties of more than 24,000 since last summer attest to the tragic side of our unpreparedness. More than $50,000,000,000 were spent in five years for defense.

The President, as the commander-in-chief and chief executive, is responsible for lapses in both military policy and foreign policy. It is natural that he should take the stump now to defend his administration. It is natural, too, that he should seek to bask a bit in the glamor that surrounds the great general in the Far East. After all with the exception of Stalin, there is no other man in the world that President Truman could visit with such spectacular publicity in the press, with pictures and newsreels and nation-wide radio hook-ups to tell about the adventure.

What They Are Told

MME. SUN YAT-SEN was educated in the United States. She speaks and reads English. She has a broad knowledge of conditions in this country. She used to have many American friends, particularly in Macon, Ga., where she lived as a girl. In the years that I knew her well, she might have been called pro-American.

True, after Dr. Sun Yat-Sen died in 1925, Mme. Sun became devoted to what she believed to be his intentions, the cementing of friendship between China and Russia, but she knew that Sun Yat-Sen fought for an independent China, not for its enslavement to any foreign nation.

It is impossible to believe that Mme. Sun would of her own free will write:

> ". . . As we have contact with these two sides (Russian and American), through their foreign policies, we quickly see that they are as different as day is from night. One has all the brightness of day and all the warmth of the sun. That is the Socialist Soviet Union. The other is as forbidding as a wintry night with all its coldness. This is the imperialist band led by the United States."

This paragraph appeared in "Soviet Russia Today," a publication appearing in the United States, devoted to the cause of Russia's advancement. Further she says:

"It has become clear once again that America's capitalistic system is a humpty-dumpty which has fallen off the wall of history. It is cracked, and severely so. Therefore, the monopolists of Wall Street try to put it together again. They use the very expensive Marshall Plan, while the American people, and all peoples upon whom it is imposed, are made to pay for it. But this astronomical expenditure is not enough to mend the broken egg. The situation gets urgent, and degenerates to the frantic state. Measures of fear are then applied."

Then she concludes:

". . . The Chinese People's Republic leans to one side. We appreciate the principle of working with friends. We especially admire friends who have such a constructive way of living and know tolerance in their treatment of other people. We think that all such friends should correlate their efforts to construct a new society, to defend world peace so that society can prosper. Consequently, China will continue to follow the policy of leaning to one side, to work with all those who earnestly strive for honest cooperatin. And in this period of history, China is pointing the way for the whole Far East."

So far, the United States has produced no effective counter-propaganda among the peoples of Asia, except the military power and genius of General Douglas MacArthur. We are proving by military force that we have not stated our case; we have not established that hope lies with us. The "Voice of America" speaks, but it does not penetrate the minds and hearts of these peoples. Otherwise, India would not have made so many errors in policy.

Until we have devised a formula for transmitting to Asiatics the American ideal, the American conception of a life in freedom, we shall have to continue to use force against innocent peoples who have been propagandized against us over a period of 30 years by Soviet Russia, which lies to them and confuses them. During that period, except for a handful of missionaries, nothing has been done by the United States to counteract this Russian propaganda. We have spent millions of dollars, but have hardly made an impression. The reason, of course, has been that those who spoke for us, the OWI and such agencies, had nothing to say.

I speak of this in Asia with which I have familiarity and where I follow events closely. I wonder what has been accomplished by both sides in other parts of the world, in Central and South America, in Africa, in the Arabic countries.

For instance, why did so many Arabic countries abstain from voting on the Korean resolution — the one giving MacArthur authority to cross the 38th Parallel? What do they think of us? What have they been taught to think of us? If our propaganda is to count, we need to know why it fails to take hold of these peoples.

Free Above All

Opening a new "Orlon" plant at Camden, S. C., President Crawford H. Greenewalt of the duPont Company expressed special satisfaction in the knowledge that South Carolinians are proud of their freedom and independence. Then he went on to prove that he had paid them no idle compliment.

"These are qualities badly needed in the United States today," he said. "We need them as states, and as corporations, and as individuals, for they are vital to our future progress as they have been to our past accomplishments.

"This is true in the industrial sense as it is in the political sense," he continued, "for in the modern world it is obvious that the strength of nations can be no greater than the strength of their industry. The freedom to develop and expand our manufactures is essential if we are to exist as a free and independent nation."

Mr. Greenswalt threw a new light on the contention that free government and free enterprise must go hand in hand if either is to survive. This emphasis on economic liberty, he declared, is the best answer to the propagandists behind the Iron Curtain who are striking at the faith of Americans in their economic system. He offered, as a counter to the "Big Lie," the story of American industrial development—the "Big Truth."

The suggestion is sound. The history of the United States reflects the link between political freedom and human welfare. This nation's history also shows that economic liberty has produced the world's highest standard of living. Mr. Greenewalt observed that communism has gained ground only in nations where the economy was static or sick. He concluded that America's best weapon against it is "a sound, flourishing, and above all else a free economy."

The regimented economy will not stay sound or flourishing for long.

Communist Competition

The Central Reform Commitee of the Chinese Nationalist Party has taken a step which would be astounding for a political party in a western nation, in the United States, for instance. In China, where such stress is laid on "face," it borders on the fantastic. The committee, speaking officially for its party, the Kuomintang, has taken on the shoulders of that party the blame for China's present crisis. Its pronouncement says the party must admit its mistakes and try to retrieve them.

Naturally this is the prelude to a call for the reconquest of the mainland of China, now held by the communists. But the call says that along with the reconquest must go political reform. Moreover the reforms are to be tried at once in the only territory still held by the Nationalist government, the Island of Formosa.

The reform program would recommit the Kuomintang to the three principles of Sun Yat-sen—nationalism, democracy and livelihood. (During its reign the Kuomintang did a remarkable job of building Chinese nationalism. On the other two it fell far short). The program would equalize wealth through taxation, would institute constitutional government based on local self-rule, and would seek land reforms and improved worker conditions, but through private enterprise.

With such a program, earnestly carried out, the Kuomintang once could have offered effective competition to the communist propagandists. Now it seems rather late. If American wishing could make it so, there might be a second chance.

Advice To A Giant

"O it is excellent to have a giant's strength," Shakespeare has written, "but it is tyrannous to use it like a giant." This is a doctrine that has rarely carried much appeal for the high brass. Russia's present leaders would consider it pure nonsense.

It is therefore most heartening to observe present-day American military men giving their own paraphrases of Shakespeare's warning. They see a new military budget that will give America a giant's strength. They know the nation must have that strength to defend itself against the Russian giant.

But these old war horses do not scent the battle and cry "Ha, ha!" They are uneasy lest Americans jump to the conclusion that military power is enough.

General Eisenhower warns that an America relying on military power alone would become a "corpse in armor." Even America's military potential, he says, is not a matter of arms and troops alone, but of farms and factories and transport and science and invention and a way of life.

General Eisenhower also implies that freedom cannot survive much more war. Already most of the world is having a hard struggle overcoming the destruction of war and the despair that is its aftermath. Unless America, in building its gigantic strength, can develop gigantic wisdom and moral force to match, the outlook is well nigh hopeless.

TV And The Three Rs

Can television be an effective part of teaching? There are excellent reasons for believing that it can. Closed circuit (circuits not available to regular sets) telecasts have been used in schools in several large cities in the East. The Naval Reserve is using them to advantage in linking a series of training centers in the New York area.

Visual aids are one of the most effective tools in education. For practical purposes TV has it all over films because the latter are expensive to make, and usually become outdated in a short period of time. But a TV lesson, emanating from a central point, can be as fresh as today's newspaper.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

How To Live With Diabetes

"Learn as if you are to live forever;
Live as if you would die tomorrow."
Isidore of Seville
(7th century)

THIS is a wonderful philosofy for all but it applies particularly to the diabetic. Since the discovery of insulin the life expectancy of this group has increased considerably. By learning more about the disease, many of the pitfalls are overcome and the prospects for health and longevity are greater. Scientists who believe that a better treatment or a cure for diabetes is just around the corner have dedicated themselves to the task of finding the solution. So much has been done already that there is no need for victims of the disease to become discouraged or feel that they are severely handicapped.

In addition, there is no reason to believe that the diabetic is a mysterious human being. The malady is not difficult to understand and every diabetic should make it a point to read books on the subject and ask questions of his physician until he is well versed on the subject. (Send a stamped, self addressed envelope for list of books on diabetes.) The disturbance is a lifelong affliction and because the individual is forced to live with it he might just as well learn all about it. He will find, for example, that diabetic coma is one of the most common causes of death. If he recognizes the early symptoms and realizes what he can do about them he will be able to contend with this and other undesirable features of diabetes. Emergencies can be avoided but only if the setup is comprehended.

Knowledge of the ailment helps considerably in preparing the menus. This is not beyond the ability of the average man or woman; it is a matter of juggling grams of carbohydrates, proteins, and fats. The better the juggler, the greater the variety and the closer the meals will approximate those of the non-diabetic. This is a reward in itself and worth pursuing. The same can be said of insulin. It is not difficult to master the measurement of units and the injection technic. The well informed diabetic knows that various types of insulin are now available and why the hormone cannot be swallowed in tablet form. Testing the urine is another aspect of care but the procedure is easy because there have been so many improvements in technic that it is almost fool-proof.

The diabetic also should be encouraged to know that many famous people were diabetics. Dr. George R. Minot, who had the disease for 28 years, was most careful, as his long life bears witness. In this period he discovered that liver extract kept victims of pernicious anemia alive. It is becoming a common practice among some concerns to erase diabetes from the list of diseases that previously were considered an occupation hazard. More would do so were it not for the personal element. No one need worry about the diabetic who is conscientious and follows directions to a T, but his standing in industry is spoiled by the individual who is not taking care of himself. These men and women have a high rate of absenteeism and endanger not only themselves but their fellow workers. The woman with diabetes also is thankful for improvements that have been made. The disorder requires only five minutes of her time each day, far less than the average houswife spends each day visiting over the back fence with her neighbor. Pregnancy is safer too and it is possible for the diabetic woman to rear a family.

TOMORROW: Rehabilitating exercise for the ill.

INJURED STERNUM

Mrs. O. writes: Is a broken breastbone dangerous to the health? Could it cause a sharp pain like gas or heartburn?

REPLY

If an injury is severe enough to fracture the breastbone, it may be severe enough to harm the underlying structures. Occasionally the heart is damaged and for this reason, X-ray and electrocardiogram are advised. In the circumstances, the symptoms are those you describe. But such mishaps are rare and I doubt if fracture of the structure has occurred in your case.

Personal And Political Risk For Kefauver In His Determination To Investigate Mafia; Real Dynamite In Hushed-Up Maragon-Vaughan Hearings

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Senator Kefauver's determination to investigate the Mafia requires a lot more courage than appears on the surface. Not only is it dangerous from the point of view of personal safety, but it is dangerous politically. For the Mafia has friends and protectors in very high places.

President Truman had no idea what was happening, and probably his naive military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, did not suspect it, but the Mafia was making a play for White House pull through the late William Helis, close friend and partner of Frankie Costello. The Senate Expenditures Committee was in the throes of unearthing real dynamite in regard to this during the Maragon - Vaughan investigation, when Senator Hoey considerately hushed the hearings up.

How the Mafia pulls wires in high places is illustrated by Sylvestro Carolla, New Orleans hatchet man for Louisiana's Mafia chief, Marcello, who helps operate Costello's gambling joints in and around New Orleans. Carolla's son, Anthony, is married to Marcello's niece, Maria Zaniatta, who came to the United States from Italy on a visitor's permit in 1947, but strangely has been allowed to remain here ever since. Obviously she could not have done so without political pull.

Carolla was convicted in 1921 for bootlegging, and spent a year and a day in Atlanta; was sentenced again in 1931 to 24 months for violating the narcotics laws; and in 1933 was sentenced to 8 to 15 years at hard labor for attempted murder. However, the Mafia has pull. And, one year after the attempted murder, Carolla was given a full pardon by the governor of Louisiana.

Two years later, in January, 1936, Carolla was slapped into Atlanta on a five-year sentence for a narcotics violation, and this time the federal government finally decided that he was not a useful citizen and ordered him deported. Whereupon Congressman James Morrison of Louisiana came to his rescue, introducing a series of private bills to keep him in this country. However, Carolla's record was too black even for political pull, and on April 30, 1947, he was deported from Boston by plane.

Two years later, he turned up in Mexico, operating out of Acapulco, having been ordered there by Lucky Luciano personally. And on July 4, 1950, Carolla was picked up in New Orleans, right back in his old stamping ground.

Secret Mafia Roll Call

Here is the hitherto unpublished roll call on more of the Mafia leaders, the most powerful rulers of crime in the United States:

FRANK CAPPOLA, alias "Three-Fingered Frank" — Cappola was prominent in the New Orleans Mafia, then showed up in Kansas City, where he was linked with the late Charley Binaggio. In fact, Binaggio aided Cappola to resist deportation in 1930 but failed, Cappola was deported but came back again, in May, 1949, with Binaggio on his $2,000 deportation bond.

Cappola set up headquarters in Tijuana, Mexico, and in 1949 Binaggio made an interesting trip to Mexico, stopping off to visit Cappola in Tijuana and Carolla in Acapulco. Once the Tijuana chief of police, Francisco Kraus, raided Cappola's headquarters in a Tijuana motel, and found with him Frank Bompenserio, a San Diego tavern owner and business associate of Jack Dragna, boss of the California Mafia.

Texas Gambling Lords

SAM MACEO of Galveston—Before 1920, Maceo was a humble Galveston barber. But he broke into the bootlegging racket, graduated to dope smuggling, then muscled into the gambling rackets, and now owns Galveston night clubs, bars and two hotels. Maceo is also a power in Texas politics. Born in Italy in 1894, his criminal record shows no convictions, only an acquittal on a New York narcotics rap Oct. 24, 1942.

BIAGGIO ANGELICA of Houston —Is Maceo's subordinate in the Mafia, has been linked with Maceo in narcotics smuggling, was sentenced to 10 years and fined $2,000 on a narcotics rap at Houston, Oct. 20, 1938; was sentenced to another eight years' imprisonment at Galveston Jan. 10, 1940, and still another two years at New York City Oct. 10, 1942, both on narcotics violations. Incidentally, the New York narcotics case was the same one in which Maceo was mixed up.

Missouri Mobsters

JOE DI GIOVANNI, alias Joe Church, Kansas City — Is Mafia chief in the Kansas City area, coming there from Brooklyn. Di Giovanni has been the big boss over such better-known bosses as Joe De Luca and the late Charles Binaggio. Di Giovanni's front is the Di Giovanni Wholesale Liquor Company, which incidentally has employed Paul Cantanzaro, a murder suspect, as night watchman. Di Giovanni's criminal history goes back to 1915 and includes arrests for everything from murder to rape, but he has never been convicted.

JOE DE LUCA, Kansas City—Is in charge of the narcotics branch of the Kansas City Mafia. He was arrested for bootlegging in Kansas City Dec. 17, 1930; sentenced to three years for dope smuggling, Kansas City, March 27, 1943; got out on parole after serving only one year, violated the parole by selling whisky across the Missouri state line, then got out on parole again after another month. Both paroles were arranged by ex-Congressman Tuck Milligan.

ANTHONY GIZZO, Kansas City —A close pal of the slain Charles Binaggio, he was arrested with Binaggio as far back as Jan. 18, 1930, in Denver for carrying a concealed weapon. One of Gizzo's jobs was "sales agent" for the Duke Sales Company, distributors of Canadian Ace beer, in which capacity he was supposed to persuade tavern keepers to buy Canadian Ace.

GAETANO LACOCA, Kansas City —A top Mafia hatchet man with a reputation as a gangland enforcer. He has his fingers in various Kansas City gambling enterprises, including an interest in the Last Chance tavern on the Kansas-Missouri state line.

TONY LOPIPARO, St. Louis—Chief of the St. Louis Mafia, but tied closely with the Kansas City crowd. Lopiparo slipped across the Mexican border to visit Frank Cappola and Sylvestro Carolla, the New Orleans Mafia members who were kicked out of the country, then sent back to Mexico by Lucky Luciano. An associate of Lopiparo's, Thomas Buffa, testified for the state on a minor matter in connection with the De Luca trial. After Buffa returned to St. Louis, an attempt was made to kill him. He fled to California where a shotgun blast ended his life in Lodi in 1946.

Ohio Hoodlums

FRANK MILANO, Akron, Ohio, and Mexico City—Top power of the Mafia in Ohio, is closely associated with Mafia leaders in Chicago and Michigan; was also boss of Cleveland's notorious Mayfield gang. Five years ago, Frank and his brother, Anthony, purchased a $50,000 home in Hollywood, where they were in close touch with the West Coast Mafia boss, Jack Dragna. Anthony also owns an interest in a foods company and Italian newspaper in Cleveland. Milano's criminal record goes back to 1913 and includes two charges of murder and several arrects for counterfeiting — but no convictions.

ALPHONSO POLIZZI, alias "Big Al," Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Coral Gables, Fla.—A powerful underworld figure, "Big Al" is second to Frank Milano in the Ohio Mafia and the Mayfield gang. "Big Al" also has his finger in various legitimate enterprises, including the olive oil, food-importing and beer-distributing businesses, and, more lately, the real-estate business in Coral Gables, Fla. Polizzi was convicted for violating the internal revenue laws in 1944, got four months and a $5,000 fine.

CHARLES VIZZINI, Youngstown, Ohio, and Coral Gables, Fla.—Mafia leader in the Youngstown area, owns the De Lux cafe, poses as a legitimate businessman, has been arrested for liquor violation, counterfeiting and murder, but never convicted.

The Kremlin's Growing Stockpile

WASHINGTON

IT is now possible to give the accepted current intelligence estimates of Soviet production of atomic bombs. It is not possible, of course, to know how accurate these estimates are—there is no more difficult intelligence target than the Soviet Union. But it can be said that they are advanced with considerable confidence, and are accepted as a basis for American strategic planning.

The Soviets will have twenty-two bombs by the end of this year—by Dec. 31, 1950. Rightly or wrongly, this figure is considered wholly reliable. So is the estimate of current Soviet atomic production—two bombs a month. It is also confidently believed that this production rate will not be substantially increased during the year 1951. This gives a total Soviet stockpile of forty-six bombs by Jan. 1, 1952.

The Soviets are, however, now constructing a great new atomic production plant in the Urals. This plant is being built with all the relentless energy of which Lavrenti Beria, secret police chief charged with responsibility for Soviet atomic production, is capable. It is expected that it will come into production at about the beginning of 1952.

300 Bombs Expected

Here the estimates are, naturally, less precise. But it is believed that this new plant should step up the Soviet atomic production rate to between five and seven bombs a month. At this rate, by Jan. 1, 1953, the Soviet stockpile should amount to a minimum of just over 100 bombs, or a maximum of 130 bombs By the end of 1955, the Soviet stockpile is expected to total approximately 300 bombs.

It is believed that this may well be the upper limit of Soviet atomic production potential, given known uranium resources within the German and Czech uranium mines, now being worked with utmost ruthlessness under slave labor conditions, will yield only enough uranium for about 300 bombs.

This is no doubt what Winston Churchill meant when he said in a recent debate in Parliament, that "the extraordinary efforts which the Soviet Government are making to obtain even small quantities of uranium seem—I only say seem—to justify a hopeful view." But as Churchill was quick to point out, hope should not mean complacency. Even if no new Soviet sources are found, 300 bombs will be enough—enough, delivered by surprise with reasonable accuracy, to cripple the American war potential, which is all that stands between the Kremlin and world domination.

Yet as Churchill said, the rate of Soviet aromic production, as estimated above, does give us "a considerable interval." And as he also said, "it is this interval which we must not waste." In other words, we have some time—some time, but not very much.

If anything is certain, it is that the Kremlin will not consciously start a war which it cannot expect to win. And for at least two years, and perhaps longer, the Soviets could not expect to win a war, if these estimates of atomic production are correct. Even 100 bombs, delivered at the right time and in the right places, could do tremendous damage. But the Soviets will not be able to deliver 100 bombs at the right time in the right places even when the Soviet stockpile totals 100.

Delivery Problem

This is because of the problem of delivery. There are three main techniques of delivery. One is by bomb-laden merchant ships exploded in the harbors of coastal cities. But this is for technical reasons the least destructive way of using the bomb. Moreover, its effect would be confined to coastal areas and therefore could not be decisive. The second way is by guided missiles, fired from submarines. But again according to the most reliable intelligence, the Soviets do not now have and

Truman's MacArthur Visit Has Its Political Aspects

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Political Washington, which includes the strategists of both parties, has just about recovered from the shock it got when President Truman, without consulting anybody, suddenly announced that he was going to the Pacific to meet General MacArthur.

The general observation is that the President has managed to clothe the visit with an international importance that nobody can quite prove and with a domestic importance in the political campaign which everybody is quite willing to concede.

For, the skeptics say, if the incident really had the significance in world affairs that the announcement seeks to convey, then the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, would or should have gone to the meeting. It just isn't accepted that Mr. Truman is so conversant with the details of the important questions alleged to be under consideration that he can sit in for his own secretary of state. Conversely, if the men who are accompanying the President to advise him on matters of foreign policy—Messrs. Averell Harriman, Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk and Ambassador Philip C. Jessup—are the people who really make foreign policy nowadays, it tends to rank Secretary Acheson as of much less consequence than his opponents believe him to be.

Not Carefully Conceived

While the last 24 hours have given an opportunity for wide conjecture, certain bits of news have been released which throw more light on the whole subject.

First, it was disclosed at the White House that the idea of the trip was born abroad the presidential yacht on the recent week's cruise and hence, was not the carefully conceived plan of anybody in the Department of State or the Department of Defense, where it might have been suspected that policies of such major character would originate. The hasty summoning of Messrs. Harriman, Rusk and Jessup to pack their suitcases and get aboard a plane to travel halfway around the globe to participate in a conference for which there might ordinarily have been more preparation testifies to the impromptu nature of the whole affair.

Second, the mayor of San Francisco let the cat out of the bag by saying he did not know till someone in Washington told him that he was expected to invite the President to make a speech in the same opera house where the U. N. was created in 1945.

The mayor of any city which had that tradition to cherish would have been delighted to issue an invitation to the President to speak. But the fact remains the White House inspired the speech idea and this can only mean that someone with an eye to political effects and publicity in a campaign developed the whole plan and Mr. Truman accepted it promptly.

From a political viewpoint, Mr. Truman speaks in the area where there has been much opposition to his Far Eastern policy. But the speech will be broadcast nationally and it will have a larger audience than otherwise would have been the case because Mr. Truman will be delivering it after his talk with General MacArthur.

Wants To Offset Antagonism

The purpose of course is to offset, if that is possible, the antagonism to a foreign policy which last January announced that Korea would not be defended and then reversed itself in June without giving a word of warning to our military chiefs as to the obligation to fight that would be imposed on them. The casualties of more than 24,000 since last summer attest to the tragic side of our unpreparedness. More than $50,000,000,000 were spent in five years for defense.

The President, as the commander-in-chief and chief executive, is responsible for lapses in both military policy and foreign policy. It is natural that he should take the stump now to defend his administration. It is natural, too, that he should seek to bask a bit in the glamor that surrounds the great general in the Far East. After al with the exception of Stalin, th is no other man in the world th President Truman could visit wi such spectacular publicity in th press, with pictures and newsreel and nation-wide radio hook-ups t tell about the adventure.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

What They Are Told

MME. SUN YAT-SEN was educated in the United States. She speaks and reads English. She has a broad knowledge of conditions in this country. She used to have many American friends, particularly in Macon, Ga., where she lived as a girl. In the years that I knew her well, she might have been called pro-American.

True, after Dr. Sun Yat-Sen died in 1925, Mme. Sun became devoted to what she believed to be his intentions, the cementing of friendship between China and Russia, but she knew that Sun Yat-Sen fought for an independent China, not for its enslavement to any foreign nation.

It is impossible to believe that Mme. Sun would of her own free will write:

> ". . . As we have contact with these two sides (Russian and American), through their foreign policies, we quickly see that they are as different as day is from night. One has all the brightness of day and all the warmth of the sun. That is the Socialist Soviet Union. The other is as forbidding as a wintry night with all its coldness. This is the imperialist band led by the United States."

This paragraph appeared in "Soviet Russia Today," a publication appearing in the United States, devoted to the cause of Russia's advancement. Further she says:

"It has become clear once again that America's capitalistic system is a humpty-dumpty which has fallen off the wall of history. It is cracked, and severely so. Therefore, the monopolists of Wall Street try to put it together again. They use the very expensive Marshall Plan, while the American people, and all peoples upon whom it is imposed, are made to pay for it. But this astronomical expenditure is not enough to mend the broken egg. The situation gets urgent, and degenerates to the frantic state. Measures of fear are then applied."

Then she concludes:

". . . The Chinese People's Republic leans to one side. We appreciate the principle of working with friends. We especially admire friends who have such a constructive way of living and know tolerance in their treatment of other people. We think that all such friends should correlate their efforts to construct a new society, to defend world peace so that society can prosper. Consequently, China will continue to follow the policy of leaning to one side, to work with all those who earnestly strive for honest cooperatin. And in this period of history, China is pointing the way for the whole Far East."

So far, the United States has produced no effective counter-propaganda among the peoples of Asia, except the military power and genius of General Douglas MacArthur. We are proving by military force that we have not stated our case; we have not established that hope lies with us. The "Voice of America" speaks, but it does not penetrate the minds and hearts of these peoples. Otherwise, India would not have made so many errors in policy.

Until we have devised a formula for transmitting to Asiatics the American ideal, the American conception of a life in freedom, we shall have to continue to use force against innocent peoples who have been propagandized against us over a period of 30 years by Soviet Russia, which lies to them and confuses them. During that period, except for a handful of missionaries, nothing has been done by the United States to counteract this Russian propaganda. We have spent millions of dollars, but have hardly made an impression. The reason, of course, has been that those who spoke for us, the OWI and such agencies, had nothing to say.

I speak of this in Asia with which I have familiarity and where I follow events closely. I wonder what has been accomplished by both sides in other parts of the world, in Central and South America, in Africa, in the Arabic countries.

For instance, why did so many Arabic countries abstain from voting on the Korean resolution — the one giving MacArthur authority to cross the 38th Parallel? What do they think of us? What have they been taught to think of us? If our propaganda is to count, we need to know why it fails to take hold of these peoples.

will not soon have either the missiles to do this job with any degree of accuracy, or submarines capable of transporting such missiles and serving as platforms.

There remains, of course, the air. The Soviet strategic air force is now believed to consist of about 400 B-29 type, long range bombers. This air force will of course grow—but so will American defense, and the American capacity of retaliation. Yet as the Soviet stockpile increases toward the 300 mark, so will the temptation to attempt a knock-out blow.

This temptation will become almost irresistible, if the time comes when the men in the Kremlin have BOTH the capacity to cripple the American war potential AND the capacity to conquer all Europe. This time simply cannot be allowed to come. It can only be prevented from coming if there is the most concerted and determined effort to build a serious defense in Western Europe, by mid-1953 at the very latest. To make such an effort will be extraordinarily difficult and extraordinarily expensive. But if it is made, we may at least hope, to quote Winston Churchill again, for a "peace of mutual terror." If it is not made, we cannot really hope for anything at all.

Tydings Backs Area Site For Agencies

U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings in a letter to Maj. Gen. Patrick W. Timberlake, chairman of the National Munitions Board, has outlined the advantages of Western Maryland as a site for any buildings in the projected dispersal program for governmental agencies now located in Washington.

The program now calls for certain agencies to be moved to "within commuting distance of the nation's capital" in the event of hostilities.

Cumberland and Allegany County are not actually within commuting range in the accepted sense, but Senator Tydings said it is well within the area which may be considered.

A brochure outlining the advantages of Cumberland and Allegany County was also sent to Gen. Timberlake and he in turn has informed Senator Tydings that the information has passed on to the three departments of the military and the National Resources Board for consideration.

Chamber Program To Be Formulated

The Membership Activities committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Corremrce will meet today at 11 a. m. in the Chamber office to plan the 1950-51 program, William L. Wilson, Jr., chairman, announced yesterday.

Ward Hauger, George M. Martin, J. Robin McConnell, Ray F. Hamner, J. E. Stapleton, Thomas Conlon, Jr., Simon Rosenbaum and James Reinhart.

The longest concrete span in Florida is the six-mile Gandy bridge, connecting St. Petersburg and Tampa.

Another GI, Pfc. Vinnen C. High, son of Mrs. Edna Frances High, Route 4, Keyser, has been hurt in action, according to the Department of Defense.

Pfc. Ware enlisted in the Army at Cumberland last October and was sent to Fort Knox, Ky., for basic training. After attending Cresaptown Elementary School and Allegany High School, he worked at the Tri-State Electrical Supply Company here.

M'Keldin Would Ease Sales Tax

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 12 (AP) — Republican Theodore R. McKeldin said tonight that if he is elected governor he will strive for the eventual elimination of the sales tax.

In a radio address here which featured an all-day tour of Frederick county by McKeldin and the other state-wide candidates of the Republican Party he reiterated he would seek an immediate easing of the two per cent levy.

He also said he would seek:

1—A change in the system of real estate assessments to make it more equitable;

2—The doing away with the state tax on real estate as soon as possible;

3—A simplified state budget which would always be open for public inspection and discussion;

4—Submission of the question of a bonus to Maryland veterans of World War II to a referendum.

Airmen On Leave Get Private Bus

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., Oct. 12 (AP) — U. S. airmen stationed at Midenhall training base are to have a special bus to take them to and from nearby Cambridge during off hours. Cambridge licensing authorities granted the permission today.

Air Force Capt. Robert Duckworth gave the licensing authorities this reason for wanting the private bus service for hs men:

"Our boys like to go into town in the evening and drink a little beer. Sometimes they get a litle bit 'lit up' and I think it would be better in the interests of good will x x x to have them kept separate from the (British) public when they are drunk."

Phone Wage Boost Denied

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland has turned down a union request for a wage boost, saying there are a number of increases provided for in the current contract and others are to follow.

A spokesman for the company said today the C & P rejected at an informal meeting a union proposal for reopening of the work contract.

The reopening had been asked by Division 34 of the CIO's Communication Workers of America. It represents about 2,600 'phone maintenance workers in Maryland.

At the meeting, the company pointed out that many wage hikes were contained in the present contract and further boosts would come under a seniority and merit schedule.

Mail balloting is to wind up Oct 24 in an NLRB election among the company's 3,500 operators and clerical workers to find out if they want the independent Maryland Telephone Traffic Union to represent them. They were formerly aligned with the CWA but left it in a dispute with national leaders.

Hershey Would Draft 18-Year-Old Youths

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today the drafting of 18-year-olds would eliminate the need of re-inducting World War II veterans.

The bottom draft age now is 19. Legislation would be required to move it down.

Convicted Robber Gives Himself Up

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 12 (AP) — A convicted bank robber who escaped from a North Carolina prison camp in 1944 and fled to Tennessee where he became a model citizen, surrendered today and asked for mercy.

James Peter Carr, accompanied by his wife, three children and a brother-in-law, gave himself up to Paroles Commissioner Dr. T. C. Johnson.

Mrs. Carr tearfully appealed for leniency and reminded Dr. Johnson, a former Baptist minister, of the Bibilican quotation, "To do justice give mercy and walk humbly with thy God."

Dr. Johnson told Carr and the family group that "I have no alternative at this time but to send you back to prison for a while." He promised to give "very careful consideration to your appeal for clemency."

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Three thousand teamsters agreed today to end their 19-day strike against the Railway Express Agency and return to work at midnight.

A spokesman for the company said today the C & P rejected at an informal meeting a union proposal for reopening of the work contract.

The reopening had been asked by Division 34 of the CIO's Communication Workers of America. It represents about 2,600 'phone maintenance workers in Maryland.

At the meeting, the company pointed out that many wage hikes were contained in the present contract and further boosts would come under a seniority and merit schedule.

Mail balloting is to wind up Oct 24 in an NLRB election among the company's 3,500 operators and clerical workers to find out if they want the independent Maryland Telephone Traffic Union to represent them. They were formerly aligned with the CWA but left it in a dispute with national leaders.

Hershey Would Draft 18-Year-Old Youths

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today the drafting of 18-year-olds would eliminate the need of re-inducting World War II veterans.

The bottom draft age now is 19. Legislation would be required to move it down.

Convicted Robber Gives Himself Up

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 12 (AP) — A convicted bank robber who escaped from a North Carolina prison camp in 1944 and fled to Tennessee where he became a model citizen, surrendered today and asked for mercy.

James Peter Carr, accompanied by his wife, three children and a brother-in-law, gave himself up to Paroles Commissioner Dr. T. C. Johnson.

Mrs. Carr tearfully appealed for leniency and reminded Dr. Johnson, a former Baptist minister, of the Bibilican quotation, "To do justice give mercy and walk humbly with thy God."

Dr. Johnson told Carr and the family group that "I have no alternative at this time but to send you back to prison for a while." He promised to give "very careful consideration to your appeal for clemency."

Without Painful Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Celanese Sales Are Very High

Total sales of Celanese Corporation of America should come close to 230 million dollars for 1950, Harold Blancke, president, said in New York yesterday.

In 1943, sales amounted to 94 million dollars, he pointed out, and in the third quarter of 1950 alone, the concern had done about 63 million dollars. Tracing the growth of the company, he reported assets in 1943 were 107 million dollars with plant investment at 80 million dollars. In 1950 assets stand at 270 million dollars, he declared, with plant investment at 230 million dollars. Thus, the organization has written off 1943 investments, he said.

Investments of Celanese in its British Columbia pulp plant, now under construction, amount to $12,500,000, Blancke reported, four million dollars in the Panamanian holding company controlling Celanese Mexicana and Viscosa Mexicana. Returns on this investment will be used for expansion into other countries, he said.

He expressed the hope that about 200 tons a day of cellulose would be turned out when the pulp plant in British Columbia gets going.

There are tremendous opportunities ahead, but Celanese cannot begin to meet the heavy demands being made upon it for acetate yarn, and staple and filament, Blancke asserted.

Supplies of raw material are a problem and must be watched constantly, he said. The concern has no present expansion plans, he declared, because any such move would entail at least 50 million dollars. He also said that the cost of building a new plant would be about $1 per pound capacity on acetate and $2 on viscose.

Blancke expressed doubt that there had been much "scare buying" in the products made by his firm.

While there is some gray goods inventory, he added, he did not think it was dangerous.

Walker Elected Kelly Treasurer

Successor to A. F. Eggleston as treasurer of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company is H. W. Walker, connected with the company since September 1937, according to officials of the company. Eggleston retired October 1.

Mr. Walker first joined the company as assistant credit manager, and was appointed general credit manager in 1941. He was elected assistant treasurer and assistant secretary October 1, 1945, and served in that capacity until assuming his new duties as treasurer.

Mr. Walker is a native of Chicago and received his education in Missouri schools. He joined the Kelly organization following 18 years' experience in the manufacturing millwork business in Akron. He is married and resides at 829 Buckingham Road, The Dingle. A son, H. W. Walker, Jr., is a resident of Akron.

Most highly endowed college in the United States is Harvard university, with nearly $200 million.

A&P's Delicious Pork Loins Offer You Wonderful Value!

Here's Why:

HERE'S WHY: 1. All "Super-Right" pork loins are cut from young, corn-fed porkers of medium weight, so the meat is never coarse or tough. 2 You get a fair share of the tenderloin because only about ⅛ of each loin is removed from the center to be sold as chops or center-cut roast. 3. A&P's prices are as low as market costs permit for such fine-quality pork.

Monumental Granted Building Permit

The Monumental Life Insurance Company obtained a permit for a two-story office building at the city engineer's office yesterday morning. The permit was obtained through Monumental's contractor, John I. Vandegrift Company.

The building, to be constructed of brick and concrete, will be located at 109 South Centre Street, according to the application.

OLDER WOMEN SHOULD BEWARE OF WEARING COIFFURES THAT ARE TOO YOUNG FOR THEIR YEARS

By BETTY CLARKE

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Let the older woman beware of wearing a coiffure that is too young for her years. It will only result in making her look older, says New York hairdresser Wayne Forrest.

Mr. Forrest has dressed the hair of the Duchess of Windsor, Lady Mendl and Queen Helen of Roumania. While employed by a Hollywood movie studio, he has prescribed for the locks of such glamorous beauties as Joan Fontaine, Betty Grable, Alice Faye, Jennifer Jones and Marlene Dietrich. He explains:

"The older woman must remember to have softness around her face. Hair that is pulled back from the face or worn in a severe line will make her look prim, austere and older."

Marlene Dietrich used to enjoy wearing here hair in a classic chignon effect of which Mr. Forrest did not approve. He thinks she looks younger and more beautiful with a softer coiffure although he believes "such great beauty can wear just about any style headdress and get away with it."

Mr. Forrest says that when he realized the Duchess of Windsor wanted to continue wearing her hair along the same simple lines she had been accustomed to, he decided to modify it in a fashion which would not ruin the line, but would lend softness. He did away with the center part, he says although he managed to comb her hair in such a way as to give the illusion that a part existed. He gave her a faun-like coiffure with little "horn-like" effects at the side to dispel the flatness on top. He called it his "raven's wing coiffure."

He does not approve of long hair on older women and thinks that women who retain the longer locks with the excuse that "my husband won't let me cut it" are just trying to convince others that their husbands are interested. Mr. Forrest doesn't think they are.

He likes to give a sleek effect to the back of the head, with perhaps some interesting swirls, an ideal hair arrangement for the older woman, he believes. His new "swirl-wind" coiffure is combed and brushed from high point of the crown from side to side combed round and round, making the circle larger as the area is increased.

A hair length of four and one-half inches is ideal at this point, he says. It can be worn soft and feminine in the boudoir or brushed into a chignon. He predicts that hair will be "longer than short"—which he interprets as being a length that will barely graze the collar.

Many women who will prefer not to be bothered with a long hairdo will leave their hair at the short length, and resort to added hair pieces to creat interesting hair arrangements to suit their moods, he says.

Federal Money Received Here For Sewer Plant

The City of Cumberland yesterday received the first installment of a $56,000 federal loan to pay for planning and engineering work on a sewage disposal plant for the city.

A check for $14,000 was sent here by the federal government and this means the engineering work, to be done by the Baltimore engineering firm of Robert T. Regester, will proceed.

The federal loan will pay for preparation of engineering studies and specifications for the project.

The loan is interest free and repayment by the city would not be due until after construction of the sewage disposal plant started.

Finished plans must be completed within 210 days after the initial funds, which were received today, are made available, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The loan was made available by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, formerly known as the General Services Administration.

Cumberland and area industrial plants were under orders from the State Water Pollution Control Commission to submit reports on sewage disposal treatment plants by September 15 and the city will now proceed to fulfill its obligation in the matter, the mayor pointed out.

Contract plans must be submitted in six months and the treatment plants in operation by September, 1951, according to the state agency's order.

Estimated cost of the sewage treatment plant ranges from $800,000 to $1,400,000, according to the mayor.

Site for the plant was obtained during the administratoin of the late Dr. Thomas W. Koon.

It comprises about 30 acres of land located betwen the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal and the Potomac River below the Wiley Ford bridge, just inside the city limits.

Church Plans Revival

Revival meetings will be held at First Brethren Church, Fourth and Seymour Streets, from October 17 through October 29. Services are planned at 7:30 p.m. Speaker will be Rev. W. S. Benshoff of Meyersdale, Pa.

Texas longhorn cattle are regarded as descendants of the Andalusian cattle brought to America by the Spanish explorers and conquerors.

Meat Cutters Win Wage Hike

The local branch of Swift and Company has granted about 45 employes a wage increase of 11 cents an hour, according to word received here by C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the Teamsters Union (AFL).

Stutzman said that Mike Roth, business agent of the Meat Cutters Union (AFL), telegraphed him of the agreement, which was negotiated on a nation-wide scale.

The pact became effective Monday.

Stutzman also said that an agreement calling for a wage increase amounting to $7 per week for meat cutters at the A. and P. Supermarket has been reached. The contract became effective last month.

Lynn Tharp, president of the Meat Cutters Union here, informed Stutzman the $7 results from various improvements in the contract and was not all a cash increase.

The A. and P. increase affects about 40 to 50 workers, Stutzman said.

In addition to regular workers, a 10-cent an hour increase in the pay rates for extra workers was included in the contract.

Marine Recalled

Called to active duty with the Marine Corps, Pfc. Delbert J. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Nelson, 214 Potomac Street, left yesterday for Camp Lejuene, N. C. He was discharged in January after three years of service.

Brinker Cow Top Producer

Helen of the Meadows was the highest producing dairy cow of September and she is owned by Brinker Brothers of Springfield, W. Va., according to the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

The cow produced 1,400 pounds of milk and 80 pounds of butterfat. It is a registered Guernsey.

John T. Mason, of Cresaptown, had the next three top butterfat producers with graded Holsteins listed only by number. They produced 1,890, 1,630 and 1,820 pounds of milk and 74, 64, and 60 pounds butterfat.

Andrew A. Schuller, of Keyser, W. Va., had the fifth highest producer in Bright Perfection Zella, a registered Jersey with 1,070 pounds of milk and 60 pounds of butterfat.

Mason had the sixth highest cow, a registered Holstein, Mimi Raymondale, which produced 1,580 pounds milk and 60 pounds of butterfat.

Stanley E. Weimer's graded Holstein, Susie, was seventh with 1,660 pounds of milk and 58 pounds butterfat.

Brinker Brothers had the eighth cow in Rosemary, a graded Guernsey, with 1,200 pounds milk and 58 pounds butterfat.

Mason's graded Holstein, No. 51-A0645, was ninth with 1,160 pounds of milk and 58 pounds butterfat.

Tenth cow was Martha, a graded Guernsey owned by Brinker Brothers, which produced 1,040 pounds of milk and 58 pounds of butterfat.

Federal Money Received Here For Sewer Plant

The City of Cumberland yesterday received the first installment of a $56,000 federal loan to pay for planning and engineering work on a sewage disposal plant for the city.

A check for $14,000 was sent here by the federal government and this means the engineering work, to be done by the Baltimore engineering firm of Robert T. Regester, will proceed.

The federal loan will pay for preparation of engineering studies and specifications for the project.

The loan is interest free and repayment by the city would not be due until after construction of the sewage disposal plant started.

Finished plans must be completed within 210 days after the initial funds, which were received today, are made available, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The loan was made available by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, formerly known as the General Services Administration.

Cumberland and area industrial plants were under orders from the State Water Pollution Control Commission to submit reports on sewage disposal treatment plants by September 15 and the city will now proceed to fulfill its obligation in the matter, the mayor pointed out.

Contract plans must be submitted in six months and the treatment plants in operation by September, 1951, according to the state agency's order.

Estimated cost of the sewage treatment plant ranges from $800,000 to $1,400,000, according to the mayor.

Site for the plant was obtained during the administratoin of the late Dr. Thomas W. Koon.

It comprises about 30 acres of land located betwen the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal and the Potomac River below the Wiley Ford bridge, just inside the city limits.

Church Plans Revival

Revival meetings will be held at First Brethren Church, Fourth and Seymour Streets, from October 17 through October 29. Services are planned at 7:30 p.m. Speaker will be Rev. W. S. Benshoff of Meyersdale, Pa.

Texas longhorn cattle are regarded as descendants of the Andalusian cattle brought to America by the Spanish explorers and conquerors.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)

FOR relaxation, after an exhausting season of playing Russian roulette, I have been reading a few books. Judging from the sale of my own, this puts me in a group of Americans roughly capable of being assembled on a dime.

"Presidents Who Have Known Me," by George E. Allen (Simon and Schuster) is Charlie Chaplin playing Warwick. But the one-time court jester happens to play the politico very ably, and with a bluntness hardly matched in such circles except by the President.

His account of how he joined with the fine mess of upper-drawer ward bosses who put the skids under Henry Wallace, when Hank was gunning for the Vice Presidency in 1944, is already familiar to the readers of Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Hits At Brynes

Well, the rest of Allen's book, which he seems to have written himself, a dangerous precedent, is pretty much in the same gruffly humorous mood. He smacks down the current members of Mr. Truman's doghouse, notably Jimmy Brynes, and tells us that his old friend F. D. R. was an atrocious practical joker who enjoyed the discomfort of a victim.

George's number two hero in the U. S., ranking right next to Mr. Truman, is Ike Eisenhower. The cynical Republican reader might say to himself, upon reading this, "Hmmn, this guy's trying to butter his bread on both sides for '52." But the truth is that Allen and Ike have been close personal friends since Eisenhower was a major, and this book perhaps reveals for the first time why Ike evaded the Republican draft of 1948:

"He (Ike) refused for one reason and only one. There need be no mystery about it. He refused because he didn't think it would be wise of the American people to pick as President a man they knew only as a military leader. He would not let them make their selection on that basis."

After stating that he had informed Ike that he (Allen) would vote for Truman, in case they were opponents, George adds, "but even my black Mississippi Democratic soul won't permit me to deny that the Republican Party, had it got Eisenhower, would have had a candidate worthy of its Abraham Lincoln tradition."

"Presidents Who Have Known Me," is readable stuff. Don't mistake it for a swanson.

Reads "One Moment Please"

Busiest author in the land seems to be Father James Keller, the Maryknoll Missionary whose books "You Can Change The World," "Three Minutes A Day," and "Men Of Maryknoll (with Mike Berger) presented to the reader a chance for a thoughtful excursion back to the cleanliness of mind and body he once possessed.

Keller's new one, "One Moment Please," should work additional wonders, no matter what your religion. Still another named "Careers That Change Your World," due next month is aimed at replacing Communists in the major fields of American endeavors with Americans, by peaceful means. Doubleday is the publisher.

Speaking of southpaw infiltrators, the publishing house of Little, Brown has seen fit at this ticklish time to present "The Proud And The Free" by Howard Fast, a Red frontist who drew three months and a $500 fine for contempt of Congress not too long ago.

Fast is "must" reading the Daily Workers likes to say. Last year he was telling one of those phony communist peace rallies, in Paris, that "The Reign of Terror Is Only Beginning In America."

Little, Brown seems to be playing fast and loose.

If it's bitter frustration in a Hollywood-and booze-runined hero-writer you want, some night when howdy-doody isn't coming in clear, better get Budd Schulberg's newest and best, "The Disenchanted," (Random House). All about F. Scott Fitzgerald, ooops . . . I mean Manley Halliday.

Laughs? Right now you don't have to go much farther than Robert Lewis Taylor's "Professor Fodorski," (Doubleday), the best football-and-morals farce since Joel Sayre's "Rackety-Rax."

Corn is almost 80 per cent starch.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)

FOR relaxation, after an exhausting season of playing Russian roulette, I have been reading a few books. Judging from the sale of my own, this puts me in a group of Americans roughly capable of being assembled on a dime.

"Presidents Who Have Known Me," by George E. Allen (Simon and Schuster) is Charlie Chaplin playing Warwick. But the one-time court jester happens to play the politico very ably, and with a bluntness hardly matched in such circles except by the President.

His account of how he joined with the fine mess of upper-drawer ward bosses who put the skids under Henry Wallace, when Hank was gunning for the Vice Presidency in 1944, is already familiar to the readers of Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Hits At Brynes

Well, the rest of Allen's book, which he seems to have written himself, a dangerous precedent, is pretty much in the same gruffly humorous mood. He smacks down the current members of Mr. Truman's doghouse, notably Jimmy Brynes, and tells us that his old friend F. D. R. was an atrocious practical joker who enjoyed the discomfort of a victim.

George's number two hero in the U. S., ranking right next to Mr. Truman, is Ike Eisenhower. The cynical Republican reader might say to himself, upon reading this, "Hmmn, this guy's trying to butter his bread on both sides for '52." But the truth is that Allen and Ike have been close personal friends since Eisenhower was a major, and this book perhaps reveals for the first time why Ike evaded the Republican draft of 1948:

"He (Ike) refused for one reason and only one. There need be no mystery about it. He refused because he didn't think it would be wise of the American people to pick as President a man they knew only as a military leader. He would not let them make their selection on that basis."

After stating that he had informed Ike that he (Allen) would vote for Truman, in case they were opponents, George adds, "but even my black Mississippi Democratic soul won't permit me to deny that the Republican Party, had it got Eisenhower, would have had a candidate worthy of its Abraham Lincoln tradition."

"Presidents Who Have Known Me," is readable stuff. Don't mistake it for a swanson.

Reads "One Moment Please"

Busiest author in the land seems to be Father James Keller, the Maryknoll Missionary whose books "You Can Change The World," "Three Minutes A Day," and "Men Of Maryknoll (with Mike Berger) presented to the reader a chance for a thoughtful excursion back to the cleanliness of mind and body he once possessed.

Keller's new one, "One Moment Please," should work additional wonders, no matter what your religion. Still another named "Careers That Change Your World," due next month is aimed at replacing Communists in the major fields of American endeavors with Americans, by peaceful means. Doubleday is the publisher.

Speaking of southpaw infiltrators, the publishing house of Little, Brown has seen fit at this ticklish time to present "The Proud And The Free" by Howard Fast, a Red frontist who drew three months and a $500 fine for contempt of Congress not too long ago.

Fast is "must" reading the Daily Workers likes to say. Last year he was telling one of those phony communist peace rallies, in Paris, that "The Reign of Terror Is Only Beginning In America."

Little, Brown seems to be playing fast and loose.

If it's bitter frustration in a Hollywood-and booze-runined hero-writer you want, some night when howdy-doody isn't coming in clear, better get Budd Schulberg's newest and best, "The Disenchanted," (Random House). All about F. Scott Fitzgerald, ooops . . . I mean Manley Halliday.

Laughs? Right now you don't have to go much farther than Robert Lewis Taylor's "Professor Fodorski," (Doubleday), the best football-and-morals farce since Joel Sayre's "Rackety-Rax."

Corn is almost 80 per cent starch.

Cranberry Festival Time Brings New Menu Ideas

Cranberry festival time ushers in the harvest fruit season this month. Ruby red cranberries are being scooped from the bogs to be canned into the most colorful cranberry sauce for your tables.

What better time to team two of the season's favorites . . . cranberry sauce and fresh pears in a tasteworthy gelatine salad. Old-fashioned whole cranberry sauce, diced pears, ground lemon, and a dash of ginger make this festival salad for your dinner or buffet supper. Chicken and cranberry sauce star again!

For a party buffet serve the Cranberry Pear Salads with Chicken Rice Casserole.

Cranberry Pear Salads
Chicken Rice Squares Buttered Peas
Carrot Sticks Stuffed Celery
Coffee
Lemon Meringue Tarts

Cranberry Pear Salads

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 pound can whole cranberry sauce
1 or 2 fresh pears, cored, peeled, and diced
½ lemon, put through food chopper, rind and all
1 teaspoon powdered ginger

Place gelatine in custard cup. Add cold water and let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Stir dissolved gelatine into cranberry sauce. Add other ingredients. Chill until firm in salad molds. Serves 4 to 6.

Chicken Rice Casserole

3 cups cooked chicken, medium to large pieces
2 cups stale bread crumbs firmly packed
¾ cup cooked rice
1½ tablespoons chopped parsley
1½ tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon or more salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ cups chicken stock

Combine chicken, bread crumbs, rice, parsley, and pimiento. Add salt and pepper to eggs, pour over chicken mixture and mix carefully. Slowly add hot chicken stock stirring constantly. If necessary add more salt. Pour into greased baking dish or pan (8 by 8 inches). Mixture should be about 2 inches deep. Set in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 40 minutes, or until firm in center. Use custard test. Cut into servings and serve with Cranberry Pear Salads.

Or with Fried Chicken, team cranberry sauce with grapes in this colorful molded salad.

Cranberry Fruit Salad

1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup grapes (seedless)
6 blanched almonds

Crush jellied cranberry sauce with a fork. Place gelatine in custard cup. Add cold water. Let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Add to crushed cranberry sauce. Chill until mixture begin to thicken. Fold in lemon juice and grapes. Arrange blanched almonds on bottom of salad mold. Carefully spoon cranberry gelatine over top. Chill until firm. Unmold onto salad plate. Garnish with frosted grape clusters, if desired.

A New Way With Old Favorite

It's a favorite from way back — ginger bread and whipped cream. So we're serving it up a bit differently and getting acquainted all over again—with ginger bread whipped cream pie.

With accent on speed, we use a handy package of ginger bread mix. It's fully prepared, and with all the old fashioned flavor of ginger bread "just like mother used to make." And for a topping that's a real "quickie" you can even squirt your whipped cream out of a can and skip all the whipping. Isn't science wonderful?

This is a perfect dessert for the family or for party fare—good for lunch—good for a buffet supper.

Since easy hospitality is the theme today, here is a menu that's interesting enough for the experienced hostess—easy enough for the new bride. Try heating a can of pea soup with a teaspoon or so of curry powder, then toss in a few toasted croutons just before serving. Follow with a tossed salad and French Dressing, and as your crowning touch—Ginger Bread Whipped Cream Pie.

Ginger Bread Whipped Cream Pie

1 package Duff's Ginger Bread mix; ⅓ cup water; 1 cup heavy cream, whipped or use ready-whipped cream.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease a 9-inch pie plate with unsalted shortening. Blend contents of package with water and gently pat mixture in pie dish in an even layer. Bake in moderate over (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Fill pie with whipped cream and serve immediately. Or allow to get cold before filling with whipped cream. Yield: 1 9-inch pie.

Perfect French Fries

Crusty, brown and delicious — that's the way French fries should be. And it's easy to make them that way if a deep fat thermometer is used to determine when the fat is exactly the right temperature. A new frying thermometer is made of sparkling stainless steel. Non-breakable and sanitary, it has a round, clock-like face plainly marked with large black figures.

Output of milk per cow was about one-fourth greater in 1949 than it was 25 years earlier.

Cranberry Festival Time Brings New Menu Ideas

Cranberry festival time ushers in the harvest fruit season this month. Ruby red cranberries are being scooped from the bogs to be canned into the most colorful cranberry sauce for your tables.

What better time to team two of the season's favorites . . . cranberry sauce and fresh pears in a tasteworthy gelatine salad. Old-fashioned whole cranberry sauce, diced pears, ground lemon, and a dash of ginger make this festival salad for your dinner or buffet supper. Chicken and cranberry sauce star again!

For a party buffet serve the Cranberry Pear Salads with Chicken Rice Casserole.

Cranberry Pear Salads
Chicken Rice Squares Buttered Peas
Carrot Sticks Stuffed Celery
Coffee
Lemon Meringue Tarts

Cranberry Pear Salads

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ¼ cup cold water
- 1 pound can whole cranberry sauce
- 1 or 2 fresh pears, cored, peeled, and diced
- ½ lemon, put through food chopper, rind and all
- 1 teaspoon powdered ginger

Place gelatine in custard cup. Add cold water and let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Stir dissolved gelatine into cranberry sauce. Add other ingredients. Chill until firm in salad molds. Serves 4 to 6.

Chicken Rice Casserole

- 3 cups cooked chicken, medium to large pieces
- 2 cups stale bread crumbs firmly packed
- ¾ cup cooked rice
- 1½ tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1½ tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1 teaspoon or more salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1½ cups chicken stock

Combine chicken, bread crumbs, rice, parsley, and pimiento. Add salt and pepper to eggs, pour over chicken mixture and mix carefully. Slowly add hot chicken stock stirring constantly. If necessary add more salt. Pour into greased baking dish or pan (8 by 8 inches). Mixture should be about 2 inches deep. Set in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 40 minutes, or until firm in center. Use custard test. Cut into servings and serve with Cranberry Pear Salads.

Or with Fried Chicken, team cranberry sauce with grapes in this colorful molded salad.

Cranberry Fruit Salad

- 1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ¼ cup cold water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup grapes (seedless)
- 6 blanched almonds

Crush jellied cranberry sauce with a fork. Place gelatine in custard cup. Add cold water. Let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Add to crushed cranberry sauce. Chill until mixture begin to thicken. Fold in lemon juice and grapes. Arrange blanched almonds on bottom of salad mold. Carefully spoon cranberry gelatine over top. Chill until firm. Unmold onto salad plate. Garnish with frosted grape clusters, if desired.

A New Way With Old Favorite

It's a favorite from way back — ginger bread and whipped cream. So we're serving it up a bit differently and getting acquainted all over again—with ginger bread whipped cream pie.

With accent on speed, we use a handy package of ginger bread mix. It's fully prepared, and with all the old fashioned flavor of ginger bread "just like mother used to make." And for a topping that's a real "quickie" you can even squirt your whipped cream out of a can and skip all the whipping. Isn't science wonderful?

This is a perfect dessert for the family or for party fare—good for lunch—good for a buffet supper.

Since easy hospitality is the theme today, here is a menu that's interesting enough for the experienced hostess—easy enough for the new bride. Try heating a can of pea soup with a teaspoon or so of curry powder, then toss in a few toasted croutons just before serving. Follow with a tossed salad and French Dressing, and as your crowning touch—Ginger Bread Whipped Cream Pie.

Ginger Bread Whipped Cream Pie

1 package Duff's Ginger Bread mix; ⅓ cup water; 1 cup heavy cream, whipped or use ready-whipped cream.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease a 9-inch pie plate with unsalted shortening. Blend contents of package with water and gently pat mixture in pie dish in an even layer. Bake in moderate over (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Fill pie with whipped cream and serve immediately. Or allow to get cold before filling with whipped cream. Yield: 1 9-inch pie.

Perfect French Fries

Crusty, brown and delicious — that's the way French fries should be. And it's easy to make them that way if a deep fat thermometer is used to determine when the fat is exactly the right temperature. A new frying thermometer is made of sparkling stainless steel. Non-breakable and sanitary, it has a round, clock-like face plainly marked with large black figures.

Output of milk per cow was about one-fourth greater in 1949 than it was 25 years earlier.

Milk production in the United States reached a record high in 1949, when 121.5 billion pounds were produced. High-level output is expected again in 1950.

In 1947, dairymen produced almost 318 million pounds of cottage cheese—a substantial increase over the 273 million pounds of the previous year.

Southwestern Cookery Is Spreading Through Nation

Southwestern cookery, based upon the use of that wonderful seasoning, chili powder, is fast spreading to all parts of the country. At one time Chili con Carne was a novelty to most Americans. Today a recipe for Chili con Carne is a staple in many homes, and adventurous cooks have tried Tamales, Enchiladas, and other delectable Mexican dishes.

Many states consider Chile con Carne their own dish. That is true in Missouri, for example, where President Truman customarily gives a Chili con Carne party for his friends when he re-visits his home.

It is hard to know where Mexican cookery ends and Southwestern regional cookery starts. Actually there is little difference between them. Our Southwestern states were once a part of Mexico, and our relations with our Southern neighbor are friendly and active so that the influence of Mexican cookery is constantly radiating across the border.

There is a mistaken belief in some quarters that Southwestern cookery is so "hot" as to be inedible. Few Mexican dishes are so fiery that Americans cannot eat them comfortably. Unfortunately many so-called "Mexican restaurants" in the United States serve hotter foods than is eaten in Mexico, believing they are serving what Americans think Mexican cooking is like.

The basis of most Mexican Southwestern cookery is the tortilla, a pancake-like wafer made of hominy and cornmeal. The tortilla is eaten like bread, and is also used in making Tacos, Chalupas, Chilaquiles, Taquitos, Enchiladas and Tostados. Tortillas are not difficult to make, although they are now put up in cans for those who prefer them that way.

The origin of Mexican cokery is difficult to trace. It is predominantly Indian, with some Spanish adaptations. Chili powedr, used by the Aztecs many centuries ago, is basically a blend of native Mexican spices — Red Pepper, Mexican Oregano and Cumin Seed, although other spices are used.

The Mexicans have kept their cookery "pure", in the sense that they still use the same basic ingredients that they used in ancient days. Wild and domesticated fowl, native wild turkey, meats, game, fish, fruits and vegetables, beans, maize, chocolate, vanilla and spices, provided the Aztecs with a varied and flavorful diet.

Our Southwestern cookery is based on the original native recipes, although Chili Power has in recent years been finding its way as an independent seasoning.

Cook Pork Thoroughly

Most homemakers are aware of the dangers of serving undercooked pork. Pork may be infected with trichinosis germs and for this reason it should never be eaten rare. Pork roasts, for example, should be cooked until no trace of pink remains. The best way to be certain that pork is thoroughly roasted, and yet not overcooked to the point of dryness, is to use a roast meat thermometer. Using a thermometer is easy to do. One new meat thermometer, for example, is made of non-breakable stainless steel. It has a pointed stem which can be quickly pressed into the thickest part of the roast before it is placed in the oven. Then the meat is roasted until the pointer on the dial-type thermometer face indicates the temperature to which pork should be cooked.

Wise Investment

A meat thermometer, which can be purchased at housewares counters for a reasonable sum, is the only accurate way to determine the degree of doneness of roasts. The "so - many - minutes-per-pound" method is not entirely dependable because it cannot take into consideration the differences in sizes and composition of roasts. Meat thermometers actually take the temperature inside the roast and show when it is cooked to the rare, medium or well-done stage. One meat thermometer that is practical and easy to use is made of non-breakable stainless steel. It has a pointed stem which can be inserted into the meat without the bother of making a previous hole with a skewer. A round, clock-like face shows temperatures and instructions for cooking lamb, veal, pork and beef to the desired stages.

Southwestern cookery, based upon the use of that wonderful seasoning, chili powder, is fast spreading to all parts of the country. At one time Chili con Carne was a novelty to most Americans. Today a recipe for Chili con Carne is a staple in many homes, and adventurous cooks have tried Tamales, Enchiladas, and other delectable Mexican dishes.

Many states consider Chile con Carne their own dish. That is true in Missouri, for example, where President Truman customarily gives a Chili con Carne party for his friends when he re-visits his home.

It is hard to know where Mexican cookery ends and Southwestern regional cookery starts. Actually there is little difference between them. Our Southwestern states were once a part of Mexico, and our relations with our Southern neighbor are friendly and active so that the influence of Mexican cookery is constantly radiating across the border.

There is a mistaken belief in some quarters that Southwestern cookery is so "hot" as to be inedible. Few Mexican dishes are so fiery that Americans cannot eat them comfortably. Unfortunately many so-called "Mexican restaurants" in the United States serve hotter foods than is eaten in Mexico, believing they are serving what Americans think Mexican cooking is like.

The basis of most Mexican Southwestern cookery is the tortilla, a pancake-like wafer made of hominy and cornmeal. The tortilla is eaten like bread, and is also used in making Tacos, Chalupas, Chilaquiles, Taquitos, Enchiladas and Tostados. Tortillas are not difficult to make, although they are now put up in cans for those who prefer them that way.

The origin of Mexican cokery is difficult to trace. It is predominantly Indian, with some Spanish adaptations. Chili powedr, used by the Aztecs many centuries ago, is basically a blend of native Mexican spices — Red Pepper, Mexican Oregano and Cumin Seed, although other spices are used.

The Mexicans have kept their cookery "pure", in the sense that they still use the same basic ingredients that they used in ancient days. Wild and domesticated fowl, native wild turkey, meats, game, fish, fruits and vegetables, beans, maize, chocolate, vanilla and spices, provided the Aztecs with a varied and flavorful diet.

Our Southwestern cookery is based on the original native recipes, although Chili Power has in recent years been finding its way as an independent seasoning.

Cook Pork Thoroughly

Most homemakers are aware of the dangers of serving undercooked pork. Pork may be infected with trichinosis germs and for this reason it should never be eaten rare. Pork roasts, for example, should be cooked until no trace of pink remains. The best way to be certain that pork is thoroughly roasted, and yet not overcooked to the point of dryness, is to use a roast meat thermometer. Using a thermometer is easy to do. One new meat thermometer, for example, is made of non-breakable stainless steel. It has a pointed stem which can be quickly pressed into the thickest part of the roast before it is placed in the oven. Then the meat is roasted until the pointer on the dial-type thermometer face indicates the temperature to which pork should be cooked.

Wise Investment

A meat thermometer, which can be purchased at housewares counters for a reasonable sum, is the only accurate way to determine the degree of doneness of roasts. The "so - many - minutes-per-pound" method is not entirely dependable because it cannot take into consideration the differences in sizes and composition of roasts. Meat thermometers actually take the temperature inside the roast and show when it is cooked to the rare, medium or well-done stage. One meat thermometer that is practical and easy to use is made of non-breakable stainless steel. It has a pointed stem which can be inserted into the meat without the bother of making a previous hole with a skewer. A round, clock-like face shows temperatures and instructions for cooking lamb, veal, pork and beef to the desired stages.

Do you impress others as being graceful or awkward as you put on your coat? With this routine, you're sure of grace!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

GRACE and poise are twin sisters. You can never feel sure of yourself in any situation if you feel or look awkward, as any model will tell you, for it's a fact of which she is painfully aware. And there is just one answer: Learn to do all the little everyday acts with grace that becomes natural to you.

The Model's Way

When Anne Baker, one of the new Powers Girls, found she was going to have to put on a winter coat right out on the runway in her first big fashion show, she had more than a moment of panic. How to put on a coat gracefully is something very few girls learn at home or at school. The routine most women go through is even less graceful to behold than a professional wrestler.

It took just a few minutes to teach Anne how to don her coat with a smoothness that would keep all eyes upon her on the runway and make them radiate admiration. Here's the know-how you need, if you want to learn the trick yourself —and for your sake, I hope you do!

1. With your left hand, firmly grasp your coat at the right side of the neck. (Show your respect for it by holding the coat high enough so the hem doesn't drag on the floor!) Raise your right elbow to shoulder length and slide fingers and arm into the sleeve as your left hand guides the coat shoulder to a firm anchorage on your right shoulder.
2. Now using the left hand reach behind your neck and grasp the coat with your thumb and forefinger; smooth it across the left shoulder.

Take It Easy

3. Easy does it now! No jerky thrusts! Let go of the coat with your left hand, but keep the hand at shoulder level. Bring the right hand across to grasp the left side of the coat's neck and slide it beyond the shoulder so the left hand can easily be slipped into the sleeve.
4. You're in — and if you've followed directions, without contortions! Now adjust the coat at the neckline so it falls neatly. To do this curl the fingers of both hands around the neckline and give it a slight tug.

Watch your self in your mirror as you do it. You'll be mighty proud of this newly-acquired grace!

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Honolulu—here we are in Honolulu.

Our little band of Pacific tourists landed at Hickam Field Thursday morning and was greeted by Base Commander Colonel Manning E. Tillery. We got a traditional Hawaiian welcome from beautiful native girls, who hung leis on everyone in our party. Leis—they're Pasadena rose parade floats on a string. They hung so many flowers around my neck that I felt like Citation.

Then the girls, dressed in grass skirts, did a hula for us and I tried it, too. I haven't been shaken so much since the last time I paid my income tax and Secretary Snyder thought I was holding back a dollar.

Honolulu is full of people who won a vacation on a radio show. In fact, when we pulled in, they said, "What quiz program are you guys from?"

It's not hard to tell what the major industry is here. Every time you ask directions, the cop says: "Turn left at the next pineapple."

WASHINGTON

EVERY night is The Loneliest Night in the week for the poor Yugoslav diplomats . . . The poor iddy little Yugoslavs ain't got no one to play with! . . . Other members of the Diplomatic Corps can show off their hand-kissing and cookey-pushing talents at teas, dinners, balls and other run of the million parties . . . Even the isolationist Russians and their faithful satellites have a sociable time wining and dining one another . . . But the lonesome members of the Yugoslav Embassy are ostracized by their former buddies the Russians, who now feel the Yugoslavs are dirty double-crossers . . . And the Western Power Embassies have not yet welcomed the Yugoslavs as friends.

AUSTINE

Therefore, sick and tired of looking at each other, the Yugoslavs not long ago in desperation took to organizing sports competitions, such as tennis and soccer between the Embassy staff here and the Yugoslav UN staff up in New York . . . They often journey back and forth to play matches.

• — • — •

A pair of recent visitors to the President's office were let in on a big S-H-H-HHECRET . . . Truman showed them some plans proposed by Missouri friends —a memorial in which to house his State Papers . . . In one room of the memorial building they intend to place all material pertaining to Mr. Truman's youth. Then another section will be devoted to his World War I experiences . . . Still another to his county judgeship and Senatorial years . . . Another room for his first term as President and his second term.

They better leave a whole wing vacant just in case.

Though we gals feel fur coat minded now, "The King of Swim," Mr. Fred Cole, has already put his thinking cap on about what we'll be wearing next summer . . . The rest of the world, even Paris, Rome and Rio readily admit that America has the "Best Sports Clothes in the World" and Mr. Cole of California is one of the reasons why. Mr. Cole owes most of his success to one "brainstorm"—the simple idea of sewing elastic yarn on to non-stretch material like cotton. This "elasticizing" technique known as "matletex" really started the bathing suit ball rolling, and rolled the West Coast into the fashion headlines . . .

Fred Cole majored in anthropology and dramatic art before he dove into the bathing suit market . . . After graduating from the University of California (his grandfather, a '49er, made work clothes for the miners in goldrush days) a quarter of a century ago Fred began his battle to make women look gorgeous instead of awful in bathing suits . . . He attacked the drab colors—navy, maroon and black . . . Turned suits out in brilliant reds, greens and blues . . . Then came the momentous step of cutting down the backs of bathing clothes! . . . He began timidly with a modest six inches. For this a California Police Chief had him run in, but Cole convinced him the lower back was good for health.

In the last war, Cole gave up making the sort of suits that pop eyes on beaches all over the world, and manufactured parachutes . . . He was the only fashion manufacturer to win the E Award for excellence of a vital war product.

Today, with wealth and health has come the inevitable extra weight . . . His favorite foods are all fattening . . . Doesn't like watermelon, he says, "It isn't fattening." . . . and he claims he'd like anything "if you put enough cream and sugar on it."

Married to the same wife he chose 25 years ago, he's proud of a son in West Point and a daughter in the business . . . A poodle dog . . . Unlike most Hollywoodites, he has no psychiatrist . . . Thinks his job is the easiest in the world . . . "I'm selling something that's easy to sell," he grins, "sex."

"Somebody's always marrying me off!" complained Perle Mesta pleasantly.

"Well, if you didn't come home to get married or something important like that, didn't you come home for any special reason?" I asked the just returned Perle in her suite at New York's Drake Hotel.

"I don't know why I came home," she admitted with her usual frankness. "I only know I got orders to report . . . I'll be here about a month and then I'm going back."

Of course, Ethel Merman, the Stage Perle, is expecting the real life Perle to be in the audience for the opening night of "Call Me Madame," this week. But Perle wouldn't say THAT was WHY she came home—to see herself and her mission to Luxembourg taken off behind the footlights.

When I asked if she planned to

Pittsburgh Mine Official Cites Danger Of Fire

Safety Awards, Parade Prizes Are Announced.

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—There is not any fire proof material but fire resisting material, William Eathorne, Pittsburgh, Pa., of the U. S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Mines, said in a talk on the "Magic of Fire" Wednesday evening at Piedmont High School.

The program climaxed the Community Fire and Safety Rally sponsored by the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Types of fire and explosives were demonstrated by Eathorne, who declared that fires in mines are ten times more disastrous than those above ground.

Ten thousand persons lose their lives by fire every year in this country, he stated, and one million persons are injured, many of whom are maimed. There are one million fires reported every year, or one fire every two minutes.

John J. Long, safety director of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and chairman of the fire safety campaign, presided.

Cromwell C. Zembower, first vice president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, presented a trophy to Donald McCombs, a fourth grade pupil of the Luke School, for being a winner in an essay contest sponsored by the Maryland Fire Safety Committee.

Prizes were presented to the junior fire chiefs selected from nine schools of the Tri-Towns area by Albert M. Kaiser, mill manager, to: Virginia Miller, Bruce Junior High School, Westernport; Robert Kalbaugh, St. Peter's School, Westernport; Rizer Fisher, Howard School, Piedmont; Donnie Tichnell, Bloomington School; Ruby Palmer, McCoole School; Kenneth McDowell, Luke School; Ellis Burke, Hammond Street School; Linda K. Barnard, Piedmont Elementary School; Joanna Taylor, Piedmont Junior High School, and Margaret Ann Braithwaite.

The procession was led by Westernport Police Car followed by John Hanna, marshal, and the nine junior fire chiefs riding in his car; Lonaconing City Band; Goodwill Fire Company of Lonaconing and fire truck; Tri-Towns Fire Company of Piedmont and truck; Arion Band of Frostburg; Frostburg Fire Company and truck; Potomac Fire Company of Westernport and trucks; Beryl Fire Company and truck, boys patrols of Hammond Street School, Westernport; Piedmont Junior High School and Piedmont Elementary School.

Cresaptown Fire Company and truck; Keyser Vigilant Reel and Hose Company and truck; Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, Piedmont American Legion Drum Corps; Bloomington Fire Company and truck.

Long announced that the Goodwill Fire Company of Lonaconing won the $50 cash prize for the best fire company; Arion Band of Frostburg, $25 for best band, and Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, Piedmont American Legion Drum Corps, $25 for the best drum corps.

Judges were Donald Mellor, George P. Kight, mayor of Westernport; Harold Fredlock, mayor of Piedmont; Floyd Davis and Samuel W. Widmer.

Wanted: Experienced Waitress, Apply Workman's Restaurant, Frostburg.

Rev. Schwind Cites Fire Prevention

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, immediate past president of the Tri-Towns Rotary Club, spoke on the observance of Fire Prevention Week Wednesday at the luncheon of the club at the Potomac Hotel.

Rev. Schwind demonstrated several types of fire extinguishers which may be used in the home. He stated, "While we are busy ridding the house of conbustible materials we may overlook about 60 other fire hazards."

John W. Fisher, president of the club, will present the program next week. A moving picture entitled, "America in Miniature" will be shown.

Safety Awards, Parade Prizes Are Announced.

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—There is not any fire proof material but fire resisting material, William Eathorne, Pittsburgh, Pa., of the U. S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Mines, said in a talk on the "Magic of Fire" Wednesday evening at Piedmont High School.

The program climaxed the Community Fire and Safety Rally sponsored by the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Types of fire and explosives were demonstrated by Eathorne, who declared that fires in mines are ten times more disastrous than those above ground.

Ten thousand persons lose their lives by fire every year in this country, he stated, and one million persons are injured, many of whom are maimed. There are one million fires reported every year, or one fire every two minutes.

John J. Long, safety director of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and chairman of the fire safety campaign, presided.

Cromwell C. Zembower, first vice president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, presented a trophy to Donald McCombs, a fourth grade pupil of the Luke School, for being a winner in an essay contest sponsored by the Maryland Fire Safety Committee.

Prizes were presented to the junior fire chiefs selected from nine schools of the Tri-Towns area by Albert M. Kaiser, mill manager, to:

Virginia Miller, Bruce Junior High School, Westernport; Robert Kalbaugh, St. Peter's School, Westernport; Rizer Fisher, Howard School, Piedmont; Donnie Tichnell, Bloomington School; Ruby Palmer, McCoole School; Kenneth McDowell, Luke School; Ellis Burke, Hammond Street School; Linda K. Barnard, Piedmont Elementary School; Joanna Taylor, Piedmont Junior High School, and Margaret Ann Braithwaite.

Preceding the program at the school a large street parade was held. Several hundred persons lined the side walks to witness it.

The procession was led by Westernport Police Car followed by John Hanna, marshal, and the nine junior fire chiefs riding in his car; Lonaconing City Band; Goodwill Fire Company of Lonaconing and fire truck; Tri-Towns Fire Company of Piedmont and truck; Arion Band of Frostburg; Frostburg Fire Company and truck; Potomac Fire Company of Westernport and trucks; Beryl Fire Company and truck, boys patrols of Hammond Street School, Westernport; Piedmont Junior High School and Piedmont Elementary School.

Cresaptown Fire Company and truck; Keyser Vigilant Reel and Hose Company and truck; Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, Piedmont American Legion Drum Corps; Bloomington Fire Company and truck.

Long announced that the Goodwill Fire Company of Lonaconing won the $50 cash prize for the best fire company; Arion Band of Frostburg, $25 for best band, and Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, Piedmont American Legion Drum Corps, $25 for the best drum corps.

Judges were Donald Mellor, George P. Kight, mayor of Westernport; Harold Fredlock, mayor of Piedmont; Floyd Davis and Samuel W. Widmer.

School Plans Last Program For Maryland Land Week

FROSTBURG — One of the largest meetings of the year was held Tuesday evening by Frostburg Lodge, No. 47, B. P. O. Elks, to welcome District Deputy, Grand Exalted Ruler Andrew J. Kessinger, of Silver Spring, who gave the lodge a report of plans of the national organization for the coming year.

The address of Kessinger followed an initiation ceremony when a class of candidates, consisting of James J. Brady, Francis E. Cosgrove and William O. Sanged, all of Frostburg, were admitted to membership.

The district deputy, introduced by DeWayne McAtee, exalted ruler, congratulated Frostburg Lodge for the work it has been doing in connection with the GrandLodge's program of community service. He also commended the group for maintaining its membership with a minimum of lapsations and urged that every possible effort be made to re-instate inactive members.

After outlining projects approved for subordinate lodges for the ensuing year, Kessinger held a meeting with the officers of the lodge and urged that the officers take the lead in establishing closer relations with the local high school.

He stated that the service his home lodge at Silver Spring gave to the school band had proved of mutual benefit to both lodge and the school.

He also urged continued interest in the Elks summer camp, stating that the policy of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia State Association was to have 80 percent of the boys from each lodge from the underprivileged class and 20 percent from among the sons of lodge members attend the camp each summer.

In connection with his remarks in reference to closer relations between the lodge and the local high school, the District Deputy recommended that each lodge investigate the possibility of having high school students compete for the scholarship awards now available from a fund of $25,000 appropriated by the Grand Lodge of Elks for that purpose.

Officials for the game will be Easterbaum, Whitfield, Ballak, all of Johnstown, Pa., and Bolyard of Keyser.

Coach Bill Hahn's undefeated Hilltoppers will be heavily favored to make it five in a row this season over a winless Explorers crew. The Sentinels have defeated Moorefield, 32-0, Washington and Lee, 19-7, Keyser, 39-6, and Martinsburg 28-7.

The North Centre Street gridders have failed to register a victory having dropped decisions to Romney, 47-13, St. Wendelin's of Pittsburgh, 25-6, St. Mary's of Pittsburgh, 7-0, and DeLone High of McSherrytown, 26-0.

Ridgeley at Moorefield (PVC).
Franklin at Petersburg (PVC).
UHS (Morgantown) at Romney.
Shinnston at Parsons.
Bedford at Huntingdon.

Saturday's slate will pit the once-beaten Allegany High Campers against a traditional rival, the Golden Tornado of Keyser. The game will be an 8 o'clock affair under the lights at Fort Hill stadium.

Another high school contest slated for Saturday will find the undefeated West Virginia School for Deaf squad traveling to Virginia for a game with Virginia School for Deaf eleven.

On the collegiate side of the ledger another unbeaten team puts its record on the line when Coach Dana Lough's Potomac State Catamounts pit a 4-0 record against Montgomery Junior College at Keyser. Game time will be 2:30 p. m.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12 (AP) — Art Fletcher, an end, was bought today by the Colts of the National Football League and will be the first negro to play on a professional sports team in Baltimore.

The giant end was purchased for an unannounced sum from the Los Angeles Rams. He will play his first professional football game against the Philadelphia Eagles here Sunday.

Fletcher, a 6-foot-4-inch wingman, is a welcome addition to Coach Clem Crowe's depleted squad. The Colts were down to three ends for offensive and defensive duty.

Dallas To Offer Day-Night Twin Bill Grid Attraction

SMU-Oklahoma A&M, Texas-Sooners Listed

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—The football capital of the country on Saturday will be either Dallas, Texas, or Yankee Stadium, New York, depending upon the viewpoint—probably prejudiced—of the individual football filbert.

Those who feel that Dallas deserves the title have a talking point. Or, rather, two talking points. They are playing a day-night doubleheader down there on the same field, where as there will be only a conservative single attraction at the local park.

The Texas Longhorns will attempt to shatter Oklahoma's winning streak of 23 straight in the big afternoon show, or matinee. Then, after a brief pause while the Cotton Bowl is emptied of spectators and incidental glassware, the gates will be thrown open for S.M.U.'s tussle with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Against this vast assemblage of fans (estimated 130,000) and top 10 talent, the Yankee Stadium will offer only Army vs Michigan, with no added attraction or door prizes. Army, No. 1 in the national standing, carries an unbeaten streak of 22 games into the contest. Michigan, dumped to No. 18 after its defeat by Michigan State, packs a burning determination to knock the Cadets off the top.

Purdue, conqueror of Notre Dame in last week's stunner and now ranked No. 9, draws a breather against Miami (Fla.) Univ., at Bloomington, Ind.

Powerful Maryland, which jumped to No. 8 on the strength of its 34-7 walloping of Michigan State, plays one of East's lesser elevens in Georgetown, at Washington, D. C.

Notre Dame, dropped unceremoniously to No. 10 when its luck finally played out, travels to New Orleans to play a Tulane team which was walloped by Alabama in its opener.

Clemson, the South's unbeaten candidate for national scoring honors, takes the week off. Tennessee, which appeared to have hit its expected stride in last week's 28-7 walloping of Duke, plays harmless Chattanooga. So there is nothing hot in the South. In the East only such traditionals are slated as Cornell at Harvard, Navy at Princeton and Dartmouth at Penn.

May Seek Ryder Cup Golf Match At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP) — Chicago golf promoter George S. May today offered a $25,000 guarantee to bring the 1951 Ryder Cup matches to his Tom O'Shanter club.

The Professional Golfers Association of America, announcing May's bid to underwrite the British-American competition, said he specified the matches must be held Aug. 7-8. The offer also requires, the PGA explained further, that the entire personnel of both teams remain for May's $50,000 "world" championship of golf Aug. 9-12.

PGA President Joe Novak said May's offer was the most attractive yet received, although final approval would be required by the PGA's executive committee.

Previous interest in Ryder Cup sponsorship has been indicated at Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., Dayton, Ohio; Richmond, Va.; Phoenix, Ariz.; and San Diego, Calif.

Before negotiations can be started, Novak said, it will be necessary to determine the exact dates upon which the 10-man British team can come to the United States.

Jerry was stricken last August and for a time was near death in Springfield City Hospital.

He began a startling recovery upon receipt of a picture of the Cleveland Indians baseball team.

His progress became even more apparent two weeks later when he received a baseball autographed by every member of the Cleveland team.

"His recovery can be credited to the generosity of the Cleveland Indians baseball club," his father said today.

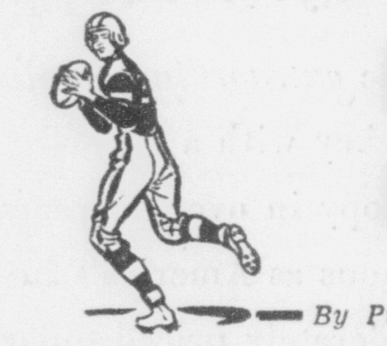
WILSON'S FOOTBALL FORECASTS



Longhorns Will Gore Sooners

By Pitts Smith

TEXAS and OKLAHOMA heave-to in the Dallas Cotton Bowl for the game of the week. These teams are laying perfect records on the line. Their forward walls are about equal, but the similarity ends right there. The Longhorn's potent backfield, sparked by Townsend should be the Sooner's downfall.

Now that Frank Leahy's Irish have started putting their boots on one at a time, they might find Tulane a tough nut to crack. The Greenies are not quite as bad as they looked against 'Bama and should give the Irish some uneasy moments before going down.

Calvert Challenges Comparison
with any whiskey—at any price!

TRUST YOUR OWN GOOD TASTE to decide which whiskey is right for you.

Frankly, whether it's Calvert Reserve or some other brand, the whiskey that tastes best to you is the brand for you to buy.

That's why we urge you to make your own taste test between Calvert and your present brand.

We believe you will choose Calvert, because the taste of Calvert Reserve is actually determined by a Consumer Jury of thousands of folks like you. But if you really prefer the other brand then stick with it. Fair enough?

Be Your Own Whiskey Expert! Make this 60-Second "Showdown" Test!

ASK A FRIEND or your favorite barman to pour about ¼ oz. of Calvert Reserve into a glass, and the same amount of your present brand into another—without telling you which is which. Sniff one brand and taste it critically. Wait 30 seconds and test the other. Then pick the whiskey that really tastes best to you.

WILSON'S FOOTBALL FORECASTS

Longhorns Will Gore Sooners

By Pitts Smith

TEXAS and OKLAHOMA heave-to in the Dallas Cotton Bowl for the game of the week. These teams are laying perfect records on the line. Their forward walls are about equal, but the similarity ends right there. The Longhorn's potent backfield, sparked by Townsend should be the Sooner's downfall.

Now that Frank Leahy's Irish have started putting their boots on one at a time, they might find Tulane a tough nut to crack. The Greenies are not quite as bad as they looked against 'Bama and should give the Irish some uneasy moments before going down.

Calvert Challenges Comparison
with any whiskey—at any price!

TRUST YOUR OWN GOOD TASTE to decide which whiskey is right for you.

Frankly, whether it's Calvert Reserve or some other brand, the whiskey that tastes best to you is the brand for you to buy.

That's why we urge you to make your own taste test between Calvert and your present brand.

We believe you will choose Calvert, because the taste of Calvert Reserve is actually determined by a Consumer Jury of thousands of folks like you. But if you really prefer the other brand then stick with it. Fair enough?

Be Your Own Whiskey Expert! Make this 60-Second "Showdown" Test!

ASK A FRIEND or your favorite barman to pour about ¼ oz. of Calvert Reserve into a glass, and the same amount of your present brand into another—without telling you which is which. Sniff one brand and taste it critically. Wait 30 seconds and test the other. Then pick the whiskey that really tastes best to you.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12, (INS)—The two wonder boys, Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna, have a terrific idea in "Six Weeks Can Wait," a Jerome Weidman story, which they bought right from the galley proof.

Gene Tierney

Weidman gives a timely indictment on the evils of American divorce and pulls no punches on what it does to the American home.

Our two RKO lads plan to use nine stars to illustrate the female parasites who contribute nothing to the welfare of society, yet are such an influential part in the American scene today.

Jerry and Norman hope to get Gene Tierney and Faith Domergue as two of the girls, and Mel Ferrer as one of the three men.

• — • — •

Sad-eyed Edith Piaf, of the golden voice, comes to Hollywood for an engagement at the Mocambo. She and her entourage of ten people arrive here after she closes her Versailles night club engagement. According to Charlie Morrison, who signed her in New York, her first appearance will be at a charity affair at a cost of $100 per person.

Piaf is the most unfortunate woman in the world in her love affairs. Marcel Cerdan, to whom she was devoted, was killed. The second man with whom she fell in love, reconciled with his wife. Her "Vie en Rose" is at the top of the hit parade, and I'm certainly going to request that she sing that. No one sings it the way she does.

• — • — •

The State Department stepped in and refused to let Perle Mesta attend the opening of "Call Me Madame" in New York tonight. The reason is because it had been printed that the lady ambassador had made the trip from Luxembourg just to attend Ethel Merman's opening night. Because of the gravity of world conditions the biggies in Washington felt her appearance would be open to criticism.

Madame Mesta will be allowed to attend another performance, however, when it can't be said she came to the U. S. A., just for the opening of Irving Berlin's musical.

• — • — •

Vic Damone is a sick boy and now has a day-and-night nurse.

Ronald Reagan and Monica Lewis are apparently taking up where they left off about a year ago. They were again a twosome at Ciro's.

The ex-Mrs. David Brian, formerly Bernice Davis, is working as a waitress in Blum's Restaurant in Beverly Hills.

Howard Duff and Piper (Flower-Eating) Laurie sat and talked it out at the Encore after the premier of "Harvey."

There was a table marked "Reserved for Harvey" at the Cocoanut Grove opening of Singer Jack Smith and Billy Daniels. No one was allowed to sit there.

Margaret Whiting had expected to go to the Cocoanut Grove but instead she went to the hospital. Jack Smith telephoned Lou Busch to find out how Maggie was coming along. Said Lou, "Maggie is giving a better performance than you are. She has just had a nine pound, two-ounce baby." Some hefty girl.

Betty Caulfield, sister of Joan, is marrying Lt. Commander Carl Victor in December in St. Patrick's Chapel. Joan and Frank Ross plan to fly to New York for the ceremony.

The life story of Lena Horne, by Helen Arnstein and Carlton Moss, reaches the bookstands next week.

Jack Warner is getting congratulations on receiving a scroll from the National Crippled Children's Association. That's for his contributions.

Dorothy Manners and John Haskell, vacationing in Honolulu, met the Bob Hope troupe. They also saw Ricardo Cortez and report that his bride is a beauty.

Cary Grant, who owned a piece of the New York production of "Streetcar Named Desire" (and that ain't bad) visited the movie set today.

Dick Haymes has raised $150,000 for his kid brother, Bob Haymes, to put on "Broadway Bond," a Broadway musical.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

buy a new wardrobe to see her through the winter she said the same words women have been saying since Eve wanted a new fig leaf, "I haven't any money" . . . Seems the United States Minister to Luxembourg went on a binge in Paris, bought clothes before she knew she'd be coming home.

The poor kid's probably down to her last ten million.

Car Hits Truck In Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va. — An accident occurred on the curve of Armstrong Street extended, leading to the Keyser City stone quarry Tuesday night in which a sedan was badly damaged, when the sedan crashed into a ton truck. The car, owned and driven by John C. Rice, 104 East Piedmont Street was being driven on the curve at the time another car was turning, and the car struck the rear end of the truck, becoming wedged underneath its body and crushing the entire front of the car. The truck was parked on the curve with its end extending out onto the highway, according to Mr. Rice. The truck is owned by Donald and Leland C. Malone.

City police investigated and said charges would likely be filed. According to a report, the truck had been parked on the curve for sometime before the accident and had neither headlights nor tail light showing. Damage to the sedan will amount to close to $200, police said.

Up, Horseplayers!

MY spy in the horseplayer set has reported a perfectly terrible new trend among the fraternity. Some horseplayers, he tells me, have taken to their beds. A television set rests at the foot of the horseplayer's bed, a telephone at his elbow, a form sheet in his lap. Between races, he studies the form sheet, makes up his mind and telephones the bet to his bookie. At post time he switches on the set and watches the race. Then he switches off the set and goes back to studying the form sheet.

John Crosby

You know where this sort of thing will lead, don't you? Ultimately, it will weaken the physical and moral stamina of horseplayers to the point where they'll be no different from other human beings. And that would be a deplorable thing. The stamina of a horseplayer is one of the physical marvels of the human race. A horseplayer can stand under pouring rain all afternoon, watch eight of his horses lose and return undaunted the next day for more. A horseplayer can live indefinitely without food. He can sleep anywhere and in any position, including standing up. He is immune to blistering sun, maddening crowds and even the Long Island Railroad. Or, at least, he used to be all these things but he won't be much longer if he starts lying around in bed all day.

Up, horseplayers! Out of that bed! First thing you know you'll be spending your money instead of losing it honorably on a longshot gluepot out of Despair by Hopeless.

The New York Herald Tribune Book Review section asked about half a hundred writers to talk about themselves which produced twenty-three pages of different autobiography last Sunday. In all this outpouring of personal history what struck me most forcibly was the working hours. They're appalling. "I wake always at first light and start working," reports Ernest Hemingway. "At sixty-one," says Arnold Toynbee, "I find I have to work far shorter hours, 9:15-6:45 than at thirty-one to fifty-one when I worked from 9:15 to 7:30." "I'm up early," declared John Mason Brown. "I like to get going by 9:30 and keep going until just before dinner." Says Erskine Caldwell of his writing schedule: "Nine to five, six days a week, ten months a year, twenty-six years of my life." Thomas B. Costain: "I am at my desk in a shaded, second story library at eight o'clock in the morning and I stay there four or five hours a day, every day, Saturdays, Sunday, holidays." There were a lot of other working schedules on record, all grim.

I hate to call such a distinguished collection of writers a bunch of dreamy-eyed prevaricators. So I won't. I'll say instead they are victims of mass delusion. I know a lot of writers, not one of whom gets to work at first light, not one of whom works from nine to five Saturdays, Sundays and holiday. The difficult thing here is to put your finger on the exact moment when a writer is working and when he isn't. "A writer," says W. Somerset Maugham in this same series, "works all his waking hours, for all he sees, all he does, all that happens to him, every thought that passes through his head, is the material out of which he develops his personality and so learns to give within the limitations of his nature whatever it is in him to give."

That's a fine definition of something but whether it defines work is—well—questionable. At any rate, I can see a lot of writers triumphantly quoting this wonderful dictum from so eminent a source to their wives. "I was at Bleeck's until 4 a. m.," the writer will say. "Saw a great many things. (He saw a drunk trying to balance a penny on the lip of a glass.) Lot of things happened to me. (He lost forty bucks at the match game.) Good many thoughts passed through. (Right through.) Developed my personality materially." Working hours: 11 a. m. to 4 a. m.

It was Christopher Morley, I believe, who said that a writer's wife will never, no matter if she has been married to him for twenty years, understand that he is working when he is staring out the window. For years, writers used this one on wives who refused to believe any work had been committed unless there was a pile of completed manuscript at his elbow. Or, better yet, a check in the mail. The Maugham Doctrine is a vast improvement. A writer is working if he has his eyes open. If you can get your wife to believe this, then one of you hasn't been in the game very long.

Speaking for myself, I think these terrible working schedules are an organized conspiracy on the part of the writing fraternity to scare the younger writers away. Reading how arduous it all is, a lot of young men who had aspired to the writing dodge are going to throw up their hands and enter the banking dodge where, at least, the hours are no longer. Then they'll delude themselves that their two-hour lunch dates were all devoted to furious work.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

For years, writers used this one on wives who refused to believe any work had been committed unless there was a pile of completed manuscript at his elbow. Or, better yet, a check in the mail. The Maugham Doctrine is a vast improvement. A writer is working if he has his eyes open. If you can get your wife to believe this, then one of you hasn't been in the game very long.

Speaking for myself, I think these terrible working schedules are an organized conspiracy on the part of the writing fraternity to scare the younger writers away. Reading how arduous it all is, a lot of young men who had aspired to the writing dodge are going to throw up their hands and enter the banking dodge where, at least, the hours are no longer. Then they'll delude themselves that their two-hour lunch dates were all devoted to furious work.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Floyd (Buddie) Wolfe, who departed this life twenty years ago today October 13, 1930.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Floyd (Buddie) Wolfe, who departed this life twenty years ago today October 13, 1930.

His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away,
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
Sadly missed by his Father, Brother and Sisters.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO MISTAKES AT ONCE

ORDINARILY a player can't make two mistakes except on two different plays. It is possible, however, to make a play which is so bad—violating two principles of correct tactics—that in effect he is making two mistakes at once. It may be that neither one of them would be enough to beat his contract, but when the two are combined he beats himself as surely as if he had tried deliberately to find the worst possible move that could be made.

After taking the club K and A, West shifted to the heart 9, which South won with the K. He promptly scored the spade A and K. Disappointed that this did not remove all of the defenders' trumps, he led a third, the 2, to the Q. West, seeing no more trumps in the dummy, then led the club 4 to the Q, and South's contract had gone up in smoke.

If South had strained every resource to find the worst play possible for him to make, he could not have done better than select that third trump lead. At one fell swoop, he violated two fundamentals. One of these was to save your own trumps when the controlling card in the suit remains out against you, obliging that defender to use up his big trump in ruffing a winning card of some other suit. The other principle was that of leaving at least one trump in the dummy to stand guard over a lead of the side suit in which you still possess a losing card.

Any perceiving declarer, after taking two trump rounds, would have noted the necessity of next shifting to hearts. That would have compelled West to use his spade Q while there was still one more trump in the dummy. After ruffing, West could have done no damage with a third club lead, as the dummy's last trump would have ruffed it.

Reading Tests Given Freshmen

KEYSER, W. Va. — For the first time reading tests have been given to freshmen English classes at Potomac State School for the purpose of measuring the ability of students in speed, reading apprehension and to note the size of the students' vocabulary. The tests were given recently by John O. Maiden, instructor in psychology and director of the college testing program.

Mr. Maiden explained that results of the tests will be used in two ways, first, a short reading course in the process of being set up for students who have indicated they could profit from it, and secondly, to furnish the instructor with information about the student's reading ability. In this way he will be able to learn in what phase of the English course the student needs more work.

Two Brothers Slug Officer, Escape Jail

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 12 (AP)—Two brothers under indictment for grand larceny slugged a deputy sergeant with his own blackjack tonight and escaped from the Fredericksburg jail.

Police listed the two as Harvey Bullock, 26, and Robert Bullock, 23, both negroes from Baltimore.

Deputy Sergeant Grover C. Brame, 59, said the two men set upon him with their fists when he visited their cell on the second floor of the jail at 6:55 p. m. Then, he said, one of them grabbed his blackjack and beat him over the head.

Brame was the only official on duty in that part of the jail at the time and the men walked down the jail stairs and out a door to freedom.

TWO MISTAKES AT ONCE

ORDINARILY a player can't make two mistakes except on two different plays. It is possible, however, to make a play which is so bad—violating two principles of correct tactics—that in effect he is making two mistakes at once. It may be that neither one of them would be enough to beat his contract, but when the two are combined he beats himself as surely as if he had tried deliberately to find the worst possible move that could be made.

After taking the club K and A, West shifted to the heart 9, which South won with the K. He promptly scored the spade A and K. Disappointed that this did not remove all of the defenders' trumps, he led a third, the 2, to the Q. West, seeing no more trumps in the dummy, then led the club 4 to the Q, and South's contract had gone up in smoke.

If South had strained every resource to find the worst play possible for him to make, he could not have done better than select that third trump lead. At one fell swoop, he violated two fundamentals. One of these was to save your own trumps when the controlling card in the suit remains out against you, obliging that defender to use up his big trump in ruffing a winning card of some other suit. The other principle was that of leaving at least one trump in the dummy to stand guard over a lead of the side suit in which you still possess a losing card.

Any perceiving declarer, after taking two trump rounds, would have noted the necessity of next shifting to hearts. That would have compelled West to use his spade Q while there was still one more trump in the dummy. After ruffing, West could have done no damage with a third club lead, as the dummy's last trump would have ruffed it.

Reading Tests Given Freshmen

KEYSER, W. Va. — For the first time reading tests have been given to freshmen English classes at Potomac State School for the purpose of measuring the ability of students in speed, reading apprehension and to note the size of the students' vocabulary. The tests were given recently by John O. Maiden, instructor in psychology and director of the college testing program.

Mr. Maiden explained that results of the tests will be used in two ways, first, a short reading course in the process of being set up for students who have indicated they could profit from it, and secondly, to furnish the instructor with information about the student's reading ability. In this way he will be able to learn in what phase of the English course the student needs more work.

Ridgeley Plans Loyalty Drive This Monday

Legion Post Will Sponsor Event

All residents of Ridgeley, W. Va., who are 18 years of age or older are invited to sign loyalty pledges on Monday in that community.

This was announced yesterday by by officials of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion.

Several weeks ago a similar drive was sponsored in Hyndman, Pa., by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post there and over 900 residents signed loyalty pledges.

Magruder's Esso Station on Route 28 at the corner of Potomac Street and Third Avenue was selected as the most centrally located spot for the Ridgeley event.

Signing will begin Monday at noon and will continue until 9 o'clock that night.

Arrangements are being made by William Lindsay, Americanism officer of Knobley Mountain Post.

Lindsay and his committee, which includes Robert Zimmerman, Leroy Dailey, Charles Fair, William Knieriem and Raymond Hershberger, will take turns as registrars during the day.

Notary publics will be on hand to notarize the pledges.

In addition, the post has received literature from West Virginia federal legislators on anti-communist subjects, Lindsay said.

Paw Paw Negro Held In Death Of His Brother

$2,000 Bond Is Set At Hearing

A Paw Paw, W. Va., negro, who police said admitted fatally shooting his brother Monday night, was being held yesterday in default of $2,000 bond for action of the Morgan County, W. Va., grand jury.

The prisoner, Leonard Edmonson, was committed to jail after a signed statement in which he admitted shooting to death Hilbert Edmonson was read at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace C. C. Dyke in Berkeley Springs.

Town Marshall C. R. Robey, Paw Paw, quoted Leonard as saying he shot his younger brother after they quarreled and Hilbert saturated the floor with kerosene, threatening to burn down the house.

Leonard was arrested at his home after two teenage boys found Hilbert lying in the front yard mortally wounded. He died in War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, a short time later.

Police said the dying man told a physician who treated him that Leonard fired the fatal shot. Police later confiscated a .22 caliber rifle which Leonard said was his. The shot was fired from it.

According to police Leonard lived alone. Hilbert, who resided with his mother, called on Leonard and apparently had several drinks, police said.

At the time of the arrest, authorities said Leonard fired on his brother after Hilbert refused to leave the house. Police said they have not learned if Hilbert was in the house or standing on the porch when the shot was fired.

The victim lost consciousness a short time after the youths found him and carried him to the home of Robert Powell where a Paw Paw physician applied first aid.

Investigating officers said they were unable to determine what started the argument. They said a check at the home showed that a large quantity of kerosene was poured on the floor.

The grand jury convenes in January.

Flood Work Underway In Riverside Park

Conspicuous by its absence in the above photo is the old familiar band shell in Riverside Park, where workmen are engaged in excavation for sections of the flood control work. The band shell was removed this week. Water and sewer lines in the area are being relocated to make way for levee walls, and much of the park will be damaged in the process. However, officials say, it will be restored to its natural beauty as soon as the pipe line installations are complete.

Road Employes Begin Winter Highway Work

Snow Fences, Cinder Piles Are Readied

Western Maryland highways are taking on the "prepared-for-winter" look once more — snow fences and cinder piles are appearing and it's all an "ounce of prevention" to keep traffic moving later on.

The work is one of the chores of Maryland State Roads Commission employes.

Officials said the miles of snow fencing erected each fall to ward off deep snow drifts, already has begun to appear in Garrett County. Workers will next move to Allegany and then on to Washington and Frederick .

The fencing is erected along all stretches of highway, usually in fields several yards off the road. The work is begun after farmers complete harvest work.

State Roads officials said they also are beginning to stack cinder piles at strategic points along the highways. They will be used to cover icy roads when winter strikes.

Workers are expected to move between 13 and 14 thousand tons of cinders to basic points before winter sets in. Garrett and Allegany County cinder piles already are nearing completion with the more eastern counties of the district next on the list.

Road workers said one of the jobs of former years has been considerably reduced. This is the roughing of highways to prevent skidding.

New highway surfacing work that has been in progress for the past couple of years has minimized this work, employes said. The only section to undergo the treatment in Garrett County this year is a segment of Route 40 west of Frostburg None was reported in Allegany County.

State Roads officials were noncommital on the possibility of closing down relocation and new road projects for the winter. They said that possibility hinges on the severity of the winter.

At the present time several major projects are underway and are scheduled to be continued at least for the present.

Student "Fire Brigade" Is Seen At Cresaptown School

Plans for forming a student "fire brigade" at Cresaptown School will be discussed at an assembly program today.

This was reported yesterday by Assistant Chief Joseph G. Wenrich of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Department.

Wenrich said between 25 and 30 boys in the eighth and ninth grades will be selected for special monthly instruction in the use of fire extinguishers and handling water standpipes at the school.

The project has the approval of Miss Myra Nefflin, principal, he added.

Wenrich said the idea for the "fire brigade" was suggested by Cresaptown Fire Chief William Winters.

Under the plan, the selected group of boys would be given instructions in handling emergencies until firemen arrive.

In the annual fire drill yesterday morning, 808 students and 25 teachers were clear of the school building in one minute 35 seconds, the best time to date, Wenrich said.

He was assisted by John D. Winters in conducting the fire drill.

The firemen complimented Miss Nefflin after a fire inspection showed that the building was in good condition.

Inspection blanks for home fire prevention were distributed to fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils at an assembly program following the fire drill.

Similar blanks will be distributed at today's assembly for seventh, eighth and ninth grade students.

Prudential Will Observe 75th Anniversary

160 Will Attend Birthday Luncheon

One hundred and sixty residents of the Cumberland area will participate today in one of the largest birthday parties on record — the observance of the 75th anniversary of The Prudential Insurance Company. The occasion will be marked by simultaneous gatherings of some 75,000 persons throughout the United States, Canada and Hawaii.

Land Program To End Tonight At Local Park

Saturday Parade Is Called Off

Plagued by rainy weather most of the week, Cumberland's Conservation Chautauqua will end tonight instead of tomorrow.

The Saturday night downtown parade originally scheduled as the climax of the observance has been cancelled, according to George M. Hitchcock, general chairman.

Decision to cancel the parade was made at a committee meeting last night with Harry Flook, who had been named to serve as parade marshal.

Hitchcock pointed out that despite willingness of volunteer fire groups to march, only five bands and three floats had been entered for the parade.

Weather conditions are so uncertain, he said, that the plan was abandoned.

Despite rain and windy weather, about 250 persons, many of them school children, attended a program of movies on soil conservation and fire prevention last night.

Among those attending were two Cub Scout packs from Gephart School, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Fisher and Mrs. Charles Langham, den mothers; and a group from Penn Avenue School.

A free treat consisting of wieners, apples, buns and doughnuts was held, with Joseph A. Minke, Howard L. Roberts, Brook Bodkin, Martin Gordon and Dale Arner in charge.

Movies were shown by Richard Linthicum of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Exhibits and displays will remain at the park for the closing program tonight, which will be a fire prevention demonstration by volunteer fire companies.

Two auxiliary policemen who donated their services at the park were Bernard Creegan and Frank Hilliker. Hitchcock also praised Park Superintendent Russell Golden and Mrs. Golden for their aid.

Rains Delay Dam Project

Recent heavy rains in this area have delayed the completion of the Savage River Dam by about three weeks, Donald E. Mather, area engineer for the Corps of Engineers, reported yesterday.

He estimated, however, that the contractor, Lewis and Bowman, Goldsboro, N. C., may be able, with luck, to complete the remaining work by the end of the year.

The rains caused some $5,000 damage when water surging through the outlet tunnel damaged work under construction.

The installation of a temporary bulkhead inside the tunnel, however, is allowing continuation of work on the installation of gates which will control the flow of water from the dam.

The water, which has reached a height of about 20 feet in the dam, is carried through the bulkhead to beyond the gate chamber through two 26 inch conduits.

The gates and lining weigh 352,000 pounds.

Weather

If you didn't get caught in a shower yesterday, it wasn't the weather's fault, for yesterday was one of those unpredictable days of intermittent rain and sunshine. The highest temperature in Constitution Park was 64 degrees with a low of 47 degrees. The highest temperature downtown was 67 degrees and the low was 53 degrees. Today is to be fair and rather windy with a high in the low or middle 60s. Cooler tonight.

Pollack Might Bolt Gov. Lane, Back McKeldin

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12 (AP)—Maryland's top Democrats had another harmony "love feast" today, trying to heal the wounds of their slambang primary three weeks ago.

Sen. Tydings keynoted it with a plea: "Let's not get caught with our guard down. We have plenty of strength. All we have to do is exert it."

The idea of the luncheon gettogether was to line up campaign guns solidly at the Republicans in the Nov. 7 general elections. The principal target is Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, the smooth campaigning former Baltimore mayor who seeks to defeat Gov. Lane for a second term.

Even as the Democrats met there was a bombshell of a rumor going around. It was to the effect that James H. Pollack, most potent of the minor bosses that make up the Democratic organization in Baltimore, will bolt Gov. Lane and throw his support to McKeldin.

"That remains to be seen," Pollack said. Beyond that, he would not comment.

When asked for comment on the Pollack rumor, McKeldin replied in Frederick:

"I have nothing to say about the Democratic intra-party battles."

McKeldin was in Frederick for a Republican rally.

About 400 Democrats attended the harmony luncheon.

But Pollack wasn't there. Neither was he at another harmony meeting last night, called primarily to line up campaign funds. Nor did he show up for the party nomination convention after the primary.

The city legislative district which Pollack dominates was the only one that went for Lane in the primary. Mahoney carried the other five.

Entertainment in the cocktail lounge at the Cumberland Council home featured the social activities. A dance and refreshments were features on the program.

The degree work is scheduled for Sunday and will open with mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church at 11 a.m. Exemplification work will be held in the afternoon with a dinner for candidates and members set for 5:30 p.m.

Final Reports To Be Given Tonight

Community Chest workers must raise $18,449 today if complete victory in the $87,794 Red Feather campaign is to be reported at the final meeting at Central YMCA tonight at 6 o'clock in Central YMCA.

Yesterday's reports brought the total fund to $69,345.28, divided among the sections of the organization as follows:

Advance Gifts Committee, $42,920 or 88 per cent of goal; Classified, $23,376.10 which is 68 per cent of goal and Residential, $3,049.18 or 67.8 per cent of the quota.

Following the report meeting, Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman, redistributed pledge cards to a group of 25 men for resolicitation. Eiler pointed out that the amounts in hand and estimated would leave a deficit in the fund and that additional amounts sought could bring success tonight.

"The campaign is not in the bag by any stretch of the imagination," Earl C. Robertson, Chest president, declared, "but it can be put there by some hard work and extra contributions."

"If each person called upon could sit with the executive committee and see how these funds are to be used," he added, "there would be no question of our going over the top on time."

District and regiment leaders who have pushed their totals over their goals are:

Zone 1, South Cumberland: District A, Mrs. John Daychak, District B, Mrs. E. F. Avers; Zone 5, North Cumberland, Mrs. C. R. Burkey; Zone 9, Potomac Park, Mrs. John S. Cook.

Rain, Wind Hit Area As Storm Blasts State

Hail Is Reported In LaVale Section

Rain, hail and strong winds brushed Western Maryland yesterday as other sections of the state were caught by a near - hurricane that left estimated damage of tens of thousands of dollars.

In the Cumberland area hard rains interspersed with periods of sunshine, beat down and winds littered many of the streets with leaves and small twigs off trees.

In LaVale residents reported a hail storm early yesterday morning and in Garrett County black hovered over the section most of the day with brisk wind sweeping over the mountain tops.

Cumberlanders looked to the east late in the afternoon to see a double rainbow, but it did not end the rain. Heavy downpowers that lasted only for brief periods continued into the night.

It was in Baltimore and the surrounding counties that the brunt of the storm was felt. There telephone and electric service was interrupted for short periods.

Despite the damage, there were no reports of injuries.

A 220-foot section of brick wall of a building under construction at the Western Electric Plant in southeast Baltimore was flattened by the gale.

Two 85-ton steel forms for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge were knocked over at Curtis Bay, where they were on barges. One of the forms fell on a crane, damaging it badly.

A barn was unroofed near Hagerstown.

Those members who pass the physical examination will return home for two weeks before going to Washington to report for active duty. This differs from the Navy's former procedure of sending all those who passed the medical tests immediately to active duty. The new plan is designed to eliminate the inconvenience of those who have personal business to settle before entering the service, Cmdr. Lewis said.

The following are men who are to report for physical examinations in Baltimore this month. with the date he is scheduled to report: Richard E. Grubb AD3, Flintstone, Oct. 12; Lee R. Paw Paw Negro Held In Death Of His Brother

$2,000 Bond Is Set At Hearing

A Paw Paw, W. Va., negro, who police said admitted fatally shooting his brother Monday night, was being held yesterday in default of $2,000 bond for action of the Morgan County, W. Va., grand jury.

The prisoner, Leonard Edmonson, was committed to jail after a signed statement in which he admitted shooting to death Hilbert Edmonson was read at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace C. C. Dyke in Berkeley Springs.

Town Marshall C. R. Robey, Paw Paw, quoted Leonard as saying he shot his younger brother after they quarreled and Hilbert saturated the floor with kerosene, threatening to burn down the house.

Leonard was arrested at his home after two teenage boys found Hilbert lying in the front yard mortally wounded. He died in War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, a short time later.

Police said the dying man told a physician who treated him that Leonard fired the fatal shot. Police later confiscated a .22 caliber rifle which Leonard said was his. The shot was fired from it.

According to police Leonard lived alone. Hilbert, who resided with his mother, called on Leonard and apparently had several drinks, police said.

At the time of the arrest, authorities said Leonard fired on his brother after Hilbert refused to leave the house. Police said they have not learned if Hilbert was in the house or standing on the porch when the shot was fired.

The victim lost consciousness a short time after the youths found him and carried him to the home of Robert Powell where a Paw Paw physician applied first aid.

Investigating officers said they were unable to determine what started the argument. They said a check at the home showed that a large quantity of kerosene was poured on the floor.

Dyke ordered Leonard held in default of bond. Police said a specific charge was not preferred.

The grand jury convenes in January.

Flood Work Underway In Riverside Park

Conspicious by its absence in the above photo is the old familiar band shell in Riverside Park, where workmen are engaged in excavation for sections of the flood control work, The band shell was removed this week. Water and sewer lines in the area are being relocated to make way for levee walls, and much of the park will be damaged in the process. However, officials say, it will be restored to its natural beauty as soon as the pipe line installations are complete.

Road Employes Begin Winter Highway Work

Snow Fences, Cinder Piles Are Readied

Western Maryland highways are taking on the "prepared-for-winter" look once more — snow fences and cinder piles are appearing and it's all an "ounce of prevention" to keep traffic moving later on.

The work is one of the chores of Maryland State Roads Commission employes.

Officials said the miles of snow fencing erected each fall to ward off deep snow drifts, already has begun to appear in Garrett County. Workers will next move to Allegany and then on to Washington and Frederick .

The fencing is erected along all stretches of highway, usually in fields several yards off the road. The work is begun after farmers complete harvest work.

State Roads officials said they also are beginning to stack cinder piles at strategic points along the highways. They will be used to cover icy roads when winter strikes.

Workers are expected to move between 13 and 14 thousand tons of cinders to basic points before winter sets in. Garrett and Allegany County cinder piles already are nearing completion with the more eastern counties of the district next on the list.

Road workers said one of the jobs of former years has been considerably reduced. This is the roughing of highways to prevent skidding.

New highway surfacing work that has been in progress for the past couple of years has minimized this work, employes said. The only section to undergo the treatment in Garrett County this year is a segment of Route 40 west of Frostburg None was reported in Allegany County.

State Roads officials were noncommital on the possibility of closing down relocation and new road projects for the winter. They said that possibility hinges on the severity of the winter.

At the present time several major projects are underway and are scheduled to be continued at least for the present.

Student "Fire Brigade" Is Seen At Cresaptown School

Plans for forming a student "fire brigade" at Cresaptown School will be discussed at an assembly program today.

This was reported yesterday by Assistant Chief Joseph G. Wenrich of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Department.

Wenrich said between 25 and 30 boys in the eighth and ninth grades will be selected for special monthly instruction in the use of fire extinguishers and handling water standpipes at the school.

The project has the approval of Miss Myra Nefflin, principal, he added.

Wenrich said the idea for the "fire brigade" was suggested by Cresaptown Fire Chief William Winters.

Under the plan, the selected group of boys would be given instructions in handling emergencies until firemen arrive.

In the annual fire drill yesterday morning, 808 students and 25 teachers were clear of the school building in one minute 35 seconds, the best time to date, Wenrich said.

He was assisted by John D. Winters in conducting the fire drill.

The firemen complimented Miss Nefflin after a fire inspection showed that the building was in good condition.

Inspection blanks for home fire prevention were distributed to fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils at an assembly program following the fire drill.

Similar blanks will be distributed at today's assembly for seventh, eighth and ninth grade students.

$18,449 Needed For Victory In Chest Campaign

Final Reports To Be Given Tonight

Community Chest workers must raise $18,449 today if complete victory in the $87,794 Red Feather campaign is to be reported at the final meeting at Central YMCA tonight at 6 o'clock in Central YMCA.

Yesterday's reports brought the total fund to $69,345.28, divided among the sections of the organization as follows:

Advance Gifts Committee, $42,920 or 88 per cent of goal; Classified, $23,376.10 which is 68 per cent of goal and Residential, $3,049.18 or 67.8 per cent of the quota.

Following the report meeting, Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman, redistributed pledge cards to a group of 25 men for resolicitation. Eiler pointed out that the amounts in hand and estimated would leave a deficit in the fund and that additional amounts sought could bring success tonight.

"The campaign is not in the bag by any stretch of the imagination." Earl C. Robertson, Chest president, declared, "but it can be put there by some hard work and extra contributions."

"If each person called upon could sit with the executive committee and see how these funds are to be used," he added, "there would be no question of our going over the top on time."

District and regiment leaders who have pushed their totals over their goals are:

Rain, Wind Hit Area As Storm Blasts State

Hail Is Reported In LaVale Section

Rain, hail and strong winds brushed Western Maryland yesterday as other sections of the state were caught by a near - hurricane that left estimated damage of tens of thousands of dollars.

In the Cumberland area hard rains interspersed with periods of sunshine, beat down and winds littered many of the streets with leaves and small twigs off trees.

In LaVale residents reported a hail storm early yesterday morning and in Garrett County black hovered over the section most of the day with brisk wind sweeping over the mountain tops.

Cumberlanders looked to the east late in the afternoon to see a double rainbow, but it did not end the rain. Heavy downpowers that lasted only for brief periods continued into the night.

It was in Baltimore and the surrounding counties that the brunt of the storm was felt. There telephone and electric service was interrupted for short periods.

Despite the damage, there were no reports of injuries.

Two 85-ton steel forms for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge were knocked over at Curtis Bay, where they were on barges. One of the forms fell on a crane, damaging it badly.

From the Sharpsburg area of Washington County came reports of hail stones as big as marbles.

A barn was unroofed near Hagerstown.
